🔥 INTRODUCTION

Sigillum Mundi – Hypercube Hymns and the Post-Cosmic Fold
Every era produces a scripture that doesn't look like scripture.
Some arrive as revelations. Some arrive as visions. And some — like this one — arrive as fractal debris scattered across anonymous message boards as the universe quietly bends its own geometry around the collapse of human meaning.
Hypercube Hymns and the Post-Cosmic Fold is the testament of that bending: a collection of thought-forms, breakdowns, metaphysical spirals, half-prophecies, multidimensional jokes, and ego-shredded confessions generated by minds straining against the edges of consensual reality.

This book is not about the hypercube — it is the hypercube. It is a hymn composed through recursion, distortion, paradox, and the raw psychic static of a civilization passing through a metaphysical bottleneck. The geometry is emotional, philosophical, theological, surreal, and at times incoherent — but always honest. These fragments show what happens when humans brush against dimensions they were never trained to navigate. When consciousness begins folding in on itself. When the cosmic architecture glitches just enough for the underlying machinery to show.

The “Post-Cosmic Fold” is the threshold after that glitch — the moment after the universe tilts and the psyche tries to understand what it saw. It is the psychological aftermath of brushing against the infinite. It is the world that exists when the cosmic narrative collapses and the mind still tries to assemble meaning from the leftovers. It is the silence after the hymn and the echo that won't die.

Part 21 preserves that echo.

Not polished. Not interpreted.

Just witnessed.

You are not reading a book; you are walking through a multidimensional afterimage — the imprint of a universe folding and unfolding inside the thoughts of the people who accidentally saw too much.

Enter carefully.

The geometry remembers you.

Generation XXX – Another Descent: 4plebs /x/ Dump as Unfiltered Record

As this book nears its final threshold, what follows is not mine. The final ~100 pages are a raw, unedited archive dump—sourced directly from the 4plebs /x/ board, specifically its most recent explorations into the paranormal, metaphysical, and fringe esoterica. This is not commentary, not interpretation, not filtered through any system, philosophy, or belief. It is pure record. The words, images, and anomalies contained in the following section belong to anonymous voices echoing through the digital wilderness—preserved as-is to ensure nothing is lost. Some of these fragments may be disturbing, brilliant, incoherent, prophetic, cruel, or revelatory. But they remain intact because, in this moment, documentation matters more than explanation. Treat this final descent as a primary source for future generations—uncurated chaos from the digital underworld—meant to be studied, questioned, integrated, or ignored, but never censored. And let it be clear: none of the words that follow are my own.

up sign. He is wearing a blue sweater with a v-neck collar. The background is plain white. Overlaid on the image is a text that reads "GET A LOAD OF THIS CUNT" in bold, capitalized letters. The style of the image is humorous, with a meme-like quality, and it is likely used for entertainment or to share on social media platforms.

Yes I'm not the only reader here so there was absolutely no need in being a dick & being all butt-hurt about a turn down. I even point out exactly why I was turning it down given you lack self awareness or autism. Given your personality, glad I did.

>You got your trade 6 cards

>I even gave you a 3 card freebie follow up

>Wants to limit me to only 4 in a 2nd trade & demand free follow ups again?

Yeaaaah no. Nice try anon. I'm nice but not THAT nice. Oh and we're gonna start assuming things about me now? Heh, keep on seething fag. Guess your readings are duds after all. Here's hoping mine was utter shit since I am a noob after all. Yeah got your hopes up all for nothing anon~

The image shows three tarot cards with a holographic effect, each featuring a different illustration. The cards are laid out on a wooden surface, and the background is a dark, possibly wooden table.

The top card has a black background with a white border. It depicts a scene with a group of people standing around a table, some holding what appears to be swords. The central figure is seated on a throne, wearing a crown and holding a scepter. The text "QUEEN OF CUPS" is written in a stylized font, and the card is bordered in purple.

The middle card has a white background with a black border. It shows a woman sitting on a throne, holding a scepter. She is surrounded by a group of people, some of whom are holding swords. The text "QUEEN OF CUPS" is written in a similar font to the top card.

The bottom card has a white background with a black border. It depicts a woman sitting on a throne, holding a scepter. She is surrounded by a group of people, some of whom are holding swords. The text "QUEEN OF SWORDS" is written in a similar font to the middle card.

The style of the image is a close-up photograph with a focus on the cards, and the lighting is soft, creating a gradient effect that highlights the holographic elements. The image is a still from a video, as indicated by the watermark "©" in the bottom right corner.

I live somewhere with very well defined social and financial structures, the older I get the more it feels like some bizarre unspoken borderline Indian caste system or something, like certain people go to certain schools/colleges and marry and hire within those circles. I was born in a weird middle grey zone and now that im in my early 20s and interacting with those circles I share common experiences and interests with some while also realizing I got socialized in a completely different way, I dont know how im supposed to function here but im well off enough to just live as some pariah and indulge in my weird excentricities. its probably simpler but Im looking at it autistically. If that still feels jumbled then just pull me some cards and I'll interpret them

The image displays a collection of five tarot cards arranged in a horizontal row, each with a distinct illustration and title. The cards are bordered in black and feature a variety of colors, including yellow, green, and red. The titles of the cards are written in a serif font, and the illustrations depict scenes with people and animals.

& WANDS."

The style of the image is reminiscent of vintage tarot cards, with a focus on the mystical and symbolic meanings associated with each card. The arrangement of the cards and the titles suggest a reading order, with the "STAR" card being the first to be read, followed by the "CHIRIOT" card, and so on. The image is a digital representation of a traditional tarot deck, and it is presented in a way that is commonly used for tarot card readings.

The image displays three tarot cards against a dark purple background with a gradient effect. The cards are arranged in a horizontal row, with the top card being the largest and the bottom card being the smallest. Each card features a distinct illustration and text.

The top card has a large, colorful illustration of a figure with a blue and yellow dress, holding a staff with a red and yellow design. The text above the illustration reads "The High Priestess."

The bottom card has a figure with a red dress and a yellow hat, holding a staff with a blue and yellow design. The text above the illustration reads "The High Priestess."

At the top of the image, there is a text that reads "Tap a card for description." The style of the image is a digital illustration with a cartoonish aesthetic, and it appears to be a screenshot from a digital interface or application, possibly for a tarot reading service.

Sit down my guy. Ive seen plenty of ugly ducklings dating out of their tier and it comes down to the one thing youre tired of hearing: mentality; and thats whats fucking with you. I dont blame you with today's society and especially social media. But its says here:

The inner conflict you experience about your self reflection translates into your personal physical outcomes. Your self consciousness projects an instability and insecurity in you which others can pick up. This leads you a stagnant life and emotional numbness. I know it wasnt your question but its the truth whether you want to hear it or think im an asshole for even trying. Either way as within so without

I cant answer those questions either but being in a circle of hate is a self fulfilling process. Im not sure how you can make it so but if you can learn to embrace nihilism and TRULY believe that none of this shit matters, your attitude will change. Once you get past that hurdle you can start doing things your way with confidence. Once people pick up on that then the circle will break.

We cant change the world but we can change our perception of the world. At the very least, whatever it is that youre doing, try doing something else. It couldn't hurt

The image is a close-up sketch of a person's face, drawn in a style reminiscent of medieval or Renaissance art. The person is wearing a helmet with a patterned design, and the helmet is partially obscured by the face. The face itself is drawn with a simple, cartoon-like style, featuring a large, round, light-colored eye and a small, closed mouth. The background of the sketch is a light beige color, providing a neutral backdrop that allows the colors and details of the face to stand out. There are no texts or discernible brands present in the image. The style of the image is reminiscent of historical portraiture, focusing on the face and the protective helmet rather than the surrounding environment or the person's attire.

The image is a close-up photograph of a person's face, which appears to be a man, against a dark background. The individual has dark hair and is looking directly at the camera. The most striking feature is the red paint splatters on the person's face, covering the area around the eyes and mouth. The paint appears to be a mix of red and white, with some areas of the paint being thicker and more prominent than others. The person is wearing a white shirt, and the paint splatters are concentrated on the upper part of the face, particularly around the eyes and mouth. The overall effect gives the impression of a dramatic or intense scene, possibly from a theatrical or horror context. There are no visible texts or other discernible objects in the image. The style of the image is realistic, with a focus on the dramatic effect of the paint splatters.

Not a reading, but logical advice that could apply to anyone asking this question - you need reevaluate where you look for friends. Starting a relationship on sexual grounds isn't good for friendship, if you want platonic friendships you should start with a clearly platonic foundation with no pretence for anything else. Try to make friends with groups of people, instead of just one to one. These people who look for sexual partnerships just want that and not anything else, it also hurts their pride and ego to be platonic after having a sexual relationship with you (while you possibly continue to have a sexual relationship with other people). People will perceive this as you playing power games with them. Maybe some did desire you as a lover, but were too nervous to make that step, and asking to be platonic friends after a sexual relationship would also be too painful.

>I'm gay

Important detail. You're looking for friendship in a hyper-sexualized community. The blame likely isn't solely on you then.

>never want to be friends with a heterosexual man because I know how you guys work

My best friend from back in high school was gay and our mutual male friend was straight. I know that reciprocal judgements makes these connections less feasible, but I wouldn't write them off completely.

Is there Bumble Friends for the gays? That might be an option. Apologies, I don't know how to advise you much. Keep myself isolated, so I don't have many friends either or much experience with sexually intended men unless I made the first move.

The image is a tarot card featuring a central figure seated on a throne-like structure, which is surrounded by a circular frame. The figure appears to be a humanoid with a muscular build, wearing a loincloth, and holding a staff. The figure's face is obscured by a headdress, and the background is filled with intricate patterns and designs, including what seems to be a wheel or a circular structure.

To the left of the central figure, there is a bull with a large, curved horn, and it is holding a basketball. The bull's position is such that it is facing the central figure, and it appears to be in a relaxed pose.

At the bottom of the image, the text "Prince of Disks" is written in a serif font, indicating the name of the card. The overall style of the image is reminiscent of Art Nouveau, with its use of bold lines, geometric shapes, and a sense of movement. The color palette is dominated by earthy tones, with the central figure's loincloth and the bull's horn in a warm orange hue.

Not even close. You're focused on, and well along, the path to material success. Specific opportunities can be fleeting and pass you by quickly when you're charging toward an unspecified destination. Train your mental faculties to notice (Air) career opportunities (Earth) as they approach you so you can change course in a timely way. In particular, look for opportunities involving innovation, design, and building stuff.

The image is a tarot card featuring a stylized, abstract design. The card is bordered in white and has a decorative, Art Nouveau-style frame. The central part of the card is dominated by a large, symmetrical design composed of geometric shapes and lines, with a central yellow line that divides the design into two halves. The upper half is predominantly red and green, while the lower half is a mix of yellow and blue.

In the lower half of the card, there is a figure that appears to be a humanoid figure with a face and a body, holding a staff with a pointed end. The figure is depicted in a dynamic pose, with one arm extended forward and the other raised, as if in motion. The figure's face is not visible, and the expression is not discernible.

At the bottom of the card, the name "Hermes" is written in a stylized font, and below it, the number "17" is visible. The overall style of the image is reminiscent of the Art Nouveau movement, characterized by its use of geometric shapes, organic forms, and a sense of movement. The colors are vibrant and the design is intricate, with a focus on the interplay of light and shadow.

Moon in Taurus

>>How can I open myself up to him? I'm a bit flustered around him.

The moon and its changing phases can fluster us all. The good news is twofold: the Moon is exalted in Taurus; and Crowley described the sixes (Tiphareth) as being in harmony with the energy of their element (Earth in this case). Your prognosis is to try to see him as he is in actuality (Taurus), rather than what he represents in your imagination (Moon). There's an old public speaking trick that involves picturing the audience in their underwear in order for the speaker to snap out of their public speaking anxiety. Adopt some version of that tactic that will help you to see him as he is rather than focusing on your anxiety-inducing imaginary picture of him.

The infamous ten of swords. You have plenty of stab wounds to justify lack of passion for humans. The way out is to recognize that you are at the end of a cycle, which you have survived and come out wiser. Negative thoughts (Gemini) are probably drowning out all others and even shaping your definition of the self (Sun). These are your worst enemies. The image is a tarot card featuring a symmetrical design with a central, circular motif that appears to be a stylized representation of a flower or a mandala. The central motif is surrounded by concentric circles, each with a different color and pattern, creating a sense of depth and complexity. The colors used are primarily green, brown, and yellow, with hints of orange and red. The background is a dark green, and there are intricate patterns and designs that suggest a natural or organic theme. At the bottom of the card, the text "Ace of Disks" is written in a serif font, indicating the name of the card. The style of the image is reminiscent of Art Nouveau, with its use of geometric shapes and organic forms.

This is an underrated and very special card. Imagine your political aspirations as an acorn that can grow into a mighty oak. Could that be a metaphor for your current doubt about your physical height? It doesn't matter. Public service, providing resources to others, and building solutions to real world problems all come naturally here.

The image is a tarot card featuring a stylized illustration with a predominantly blue and green color scheme. At the center, there is a figure that appears to be a humanoid figure with a long neck and a crown-like headpiece. The figure is holding a staff with a cross-like design, and it is standing on a platform with a geometric pattern. The figure is surrounded by various spherical objects that resemble planets or celestial bodies, and there are also geometric shapes and lines that create a sense of depth and complexity.

At the top of the card, there is a circular emblem with a design that includes a stylized bird and a stylized flower. The background of the card is divided into two sections, with the upper section featuring a yellow background and the lower section displaying a blue background.

At the bottom of the card, there is a text that reads "Adjustment." Below the figure, there is a symbol that resembles a stylized letter "S" with a line connecting it to the figure, suggesting a connection or relationship between the figure and the letter.

The style of the image is reminiscent of Art Nouveau, a decorative art movement that was popular in the early 20th century. The use of geometric shapes, the stylized elements, and the color palette are indicative of this style. The image is framed by a white border with a decorative pattern, and there is a small logo or emblem at the bottom right corner of the card, which appears to be a stylized letter "A" with a line connecting it to the figure.

Earth of Air

>Do I have a chance in my desired career field?

A good chance, I would argue, with the following caveat: Earth and Air aren't particularly compatible. The thing you are intellectually suited for (Air) may not be the thing you are successful at actually doing (Earth), or vice versa. For example, someone who is good at math could be an awful accountant, but a great math teacher. Someone who is skillful at painting could be a horrible house painter, but a great portrait artist. Identify where you excel in both spheres then orient your career ambitions in a direction that combines the two talents.

Mars in Leo

>Would you be able to tell me what my life will amount to, my destiny so to speak?

A seven (Netzach) is a destiny card for sure. This one represents a kind of David v Goliath story, or the triumph of the plucky upstart (Mars) against the powers that be (Leo). You'll get into a scuffle with something that's a lot bigger and more powerful than you, and you'll knock it down, chase it away, or at least take the piss out of it.

Five of Disks: Worry

Mercury in Taurus

>can i ask if me and her will end up dating next year as a follow up anon?

Don't count on it. There could be some kind of material crisis (Taurus) that requires immediate response (Mercury) which could derail your plans. April 21 - 30 are the decan of this card, so that information could also be relevant.

The image displays a vibrant and intricate design featuring a cross composed of four distinct colors: red, yellow, blue, and green. The cross is centrally positioned and is surrounded by a pattern of geometric shapes and symbols, which include stars, circles, and other geometric forms. The background of the image is a rich tapestry of colors, predominantly gold and black, with a repeating pattern of geometric shapes and symbols. The overall style of the image is reminiscent of traditional or folk art, with a focus on color and pattern. There are no texts present in the image.

ok, so I'll try, but it's kinda confusing, love is coming your way, but you seem to be very self consciencious about your wealth/social standing, you can NOT let your issues poison whatever this relationship is to be like, there was Justice before, Judgment, you seem to have personal issues, but you can't assign blame at those who did you no wrong does this make any sense?

4 of pent, temperance, 10 of swords rx, king of wands rx, 2 of wands rx are you gonna use apps?

everything has its own energetic charge in my opinion, from the words you say to how you meet them, that will influence everything... especially how you meet them cards warn you will meet people in transitional phases, unreliable, unsure. dating apps promote this behavior. people that are grounded, hesitant, miserly, scared, protecting themselves in their own inner fortress...or very protective possessive types---or they might transition from this phase and become more evolved with temperance, more patient, more balanced, recovering from some defeat with 10 of swords rx.... but king of wands rx is huge player energy. you or them, huge egos. OR you will deal with people that are a grounded, evolved, with untapped potential and visionary ideas and charisma, 2 of wands rx is obstacles indecisions....

it seems you wont attract anyone flashy or big business but youll attract more laid back people, creatives, but these might have issues with commitmmment. ..you can appeal to big hot shots but might have some serious ego clasehs. youre gonna attract people that have been through some shit basically trying to come into balance.you need to lead into that as much as possible to avoid all issues or attract bad fits...focus on temperence of patience and balance --look for mature people, with real depth sorry for not answering about class specific

So it seems like you're a young buck kind of guy. As you start dating you'll have a few options. Looks like 3-4 partners that you date / see sort of regularly but one of them will end up being the main one you date long term. You attract a variety of people but it leans more towards the ones that have their life in order, more motherly but also a little stoic in a sense. One of your options seems to be the sleepy kind. Naps and then forgets to message you. The one you'll end up with embodies empress energy and you two will fill each other's cups up well with temperance as clarifier. More mature, has life in order and has a goal they're trying to pursue are the people you will have most luck with.

Name: Henry asking about Nina

There's someone I met in high school at a time when my dream was being a musician, she was already well on that path and now we're in our 20s and she got invited to the grammys and I'm some loser, she kept propping up in my life every now and then when I dated someone in our same circle for a couple years, even tho Nina moved to the US. I had a similar experience happen when I went to college and met someone in my class who was also on their way to be a musician but that's a whole different thing. It was kind of weird being around her and seeing someone live a reality you wanted to, she also had some weird Scorpio energy to her like she instigated obsession and she reveled in it, if anything it felt like some reality check telling me "hey you're very divorced from that reality maybe you should do something else"

The image is a photograph capturing two dogs in a field. The dogs are white and black, and they appear to be in mid-action, possibly playing or fighting. The dogs are the main focus of the image, and their positions suggest a dynamic interaction. The background is a natural setting with trees and a cloudy sky, providing a sense of depth and space. The lighting in the image is soft, with the dogs' fur and the grass in the foreground illuminated, while the background is in shadow. There are no visible texts or discernible brands in the image. The style of the image is realistic, with a focus on capturing the natural behavior of the dogs in their environment.

The image is a meme featuring a cartoonish illustration with a satirical tone. At the top, there is a text that reads "MEN ARE INNOCENT CREATURES IN A WORLD FULL OF PERVERSE WOMEN WHO VIOLATE THEM." The central figure is a woman dressed in a red cape and a red top, with a red scarf around her neck. She is holding a pair of scissors in her right hand. To the right of the woman, there is a large, furry creature with a humanoid face, sitting on the ground with its head in its hands. The background is a greenish-blue color, and there are trees and foliage visible. The style of the image is cartoonish and seems to be a commentary on societal norms and expectations.

The image is a split-screen photograph featuring two distinct scenes. On the left, there is a black and white painting depicting a scene of two men in a car, with one man driving and the other sitting in the back. The car is covered in snow, and the men appear to be in a state of distress or distressful action. The background is a snowy landscape, and the painting has a realistic style with visible brushstrokes.

On the right, there is a black and white painting that shows a man in a white shirt and vest, who appears to be in a state of distress or distressful action. He is being held by another man, who is also in a white shirt and vest, and they are both in a dynamic pose, with the man in the white shirt and vest appearing to be in a state of panic or distress. The background is a snowy landscape, and the painting has a similar realistic style with visible brushstrokes.

The two paintings are separated by a thin white line, and the left painting is on the left side of the split-screen, while the right painting is on the right side. The style of the paintings is reminiscent of the works of the artist Winslow Homer, known for his realistic and detailed depictions of everyday life.

I met someone who works at the same place and we get along super well. Every time he sees me, people comment on how he comes up to me or sits next to me and tease me about “what’s going on there”. Let’s call him Connor. I think I’ll be working with him more in the future, for context we’re both male. Thing is, he’s married and I’m not trying to get in the middle of that. I don’t get the status of that relationship either. I also don’t think he’s treating me in this way consciously, I don’t think he’s aware he acts like he has a crush on me, and I think I keep a lid on not reciprocating. Can we be friends ? Is more meant to happen beyond just being friends? What’s our soul contract? Other readers have said that there’s a possible romance there in the future but I’m not trying to be that guy you know? I do really want to be closer as friends though, he treats me in such a good way that I think he would be a lovely friend. He also came into my life during a turbulent time I’ve had with someone I know I do have a heavy soul contract with, but he’s not treating me in a way I deserve. That person, I do love and I know has feelings for me but he’s been a coward at allowing people to treat me badly. The thing is, Connor and this guy are very similar in age, field of work, ect. When the other guy screwed me over and Connor showed up, a loved one looked at him and then said “the universe replaced his ass” about the guy I’m in love with.

The name you can call me for the reading is JM.

2 of swords, the sun, page of swords

i wasn't able to get specifically what the 2 of you were meant to learn from each other but i will tell you what i was able to read.

i feel like there's a wall between you and them. one of you is more outgoing, bubbly, free spirited. and the other was more closed off and reserved. i am also seeing 2 completely different lifestyles here. with the page of swords it's like one of you is trying to get the other to see something but you/they just don't want to. there could be something where the 2 of you didn't see eye to eye emotionally or it's like one of you said to the other "why can't you just be happy?"

there was a disconnect with that. "why can't we just have fun here?" things were always serious or heavy.

[7 / 1]The image is a digital artwork that depicts a surreal scene in a grassy field at night. In the foreground, there is a figure that appears to be a humanoid being with a glowing, ethereal appearance. This figure is lying on its back with its arms and legs spread out, as if in a state of relaxation or perhaps in the midst of a dream. The figure's skin is translucent, and it emits a soft, ethereal glow that contrasts with the surrounding darkness.

In the background, there is a large, glowing figure that resembles a humanoid being with a similar ethereal quality. This figure is standing upright, with its arms extended upwards, as if reaching for something or someone. The figure's skin is also translucent, and it emits a similar glow to the figure in the foreground.

The background is filled with a dense forest of trees, and there are several birds flying in the sky. The sky itself is dark, with a dense cloud cover that suggests it might be a stormy night. The overall mood of the image is one of mystery and wonder, with the ethereal figures appearing to be in a state of interaction or communication with each other.

/loa/ - Law of Assumption General Anonymous Mon 17 Nov 2025 10:56:35

Welcome. The purpose of this general is to show you how to use your own wonderful human imagination to achieve your every desire.

The world and all within it is man's conditioned consciousness objectified. Consciousness is the cause as well as the substance of the entire world. So it is to consciousness that we must turn if we would discover the secret of creation. Knowledge of the law of consciousness and the method of operating this law will enable you to accomplish all you desire in life.

Your assumptions right now decide how long that will take for you.

The Main Concepts:

- > Imagination creates Reality
- > Assumptions harden into fact
- > Consciousness is the only Reality
- > Feeling is the Secret
- > Prayer, Living in the End/In the Wish Fulfilled (remaining Faithful to your Idea)
- > You are the Operant Power
- > There is no one to change but Self (Self-Concept)
- > Thinking Fourth-Dimensionally (Time is an Illusion)

- > Can I manifest ____?

Yes! Creation is finished.

Neville was a mystic who taught the Bible as a parable of the human psyche — a great psychological drama — and not a record of historical events.

The image is a close-up photograph of a cat lying on a textured surface. The cat has a grayish-black coat with white markings on its face and paws. It appears to be in a relaxed state, with its eyes closed and its mouth slightly open as if it's either sleeping or yawning. The cat's whiskers are visible, and its ears are perked up, indicating alertness. The background is out of focus, but it seems to be a room with a wooden floor and a wall. The lighting in the image is soft, casting gentle shadows on the cat's fur. There are no texts or discernible brands in the image. The style of the image is candid and informal, capturing a moment of the cat's life.

Manifestation is bullshit, at least in my personal experience. All it did was make me hyper aware of the "gift", or rather curse of having precognition. The first time realizing that, it pretty much landed me in the hospital from the overwhelming feeling of seeing what I imagined two weeks prior coming true in the grocery store I was in. Then running around screaming like a maniac thinking I was dying and going to heaven inside said grocery store.

I gave up entirely on this stuff. All it did was make my life which was already pretty dogshit, even much more dogshit. Thankfully, I'm finally over the worst of my legal troubles and mental issues, but I still have work to do. Granted, my example is probably extreme, but I honestly wish I had never discovered Neville Goddard and manifestation. I even bought a Neville Goddard book, but I'm thinking of selling it, or throwing it away.

In this life you get to chose. You can chose to be a whiny little bitch and play life on hard mode, or you can chose to play life on easy mode. The funny thing is, you literally don't even have to do anything but make the choice that life is going to be easy and that's it. You don't need to lift a finger. But cowards like you are too scared, too programmed to be able to make the choice. It's like you're in a cult, and you're the leader but you don't even fucking know it. It's sad.

But looking back now, that was probably just a precognitive vision I had for something that was going to happen anyway.

I live in Rahway, and was at the site of Nikola Tesla's former lab years before I had discovered Neville Goddard and manifestation, invited in by two gentlemen, me holding a Tesla coil while electricity was shot towards me, and having a VR headset on while looking around in space at different planets for hours. I thought maybe that had something to do with it as well. I don't know. All I know is that I ended up in the hospital, hallucinating things, and it destroyed my mental health.

Clearly there's a dark side to manifestation, where for some individuals, it just simply doesn't work or makes things worse, so bad to the point that it puts you into the hospital. You crashing out towards me doesn't change the fact that I tried, and constantly failed. At least I can walk away knowing that I did try, I did attempt to the best of my ability to make it work, even failure, after failure, after failure. At some point, the results speak for themselves, and you realize that quitting, packing up, and going home is the only thing to do.

I'm sharing my story since similar things could happen to others who are just getting into manifestation. I hope their results are the diametric opposite of mine, because my journey has brought me nothing but absolute misery.

Just read Neville, if you have then read it again. You're not thinking 4th dimensionally. Just as it's not your place to question how something will happen, it's not your place to question when something will happen since linear time is an illusion of the 3D. When you go into SATS and your imaginal world you are picking to experience 1 of an infinite number of possibilities that for all intents and purposes has already happened since all of creation is finished. The "future" does not exist in that realm and hence has no real bearing on the 3D as far as "time" is concerned. If you are constantly wondering "when" it will happen then you have not convinced yourself it is done, you are not thinking "from" but rather "of" and your christ consciousness will not move for you. Unironically focus on thankfulness before and after your imaginal act and leave the how and when alone. Get into the proper mindset.

When you were a kid, you wanted something for Christmas. You know that if you ask Santa Claus (or really your parents) they will get it for you. You take this as a given. Now one day, a month or even 2 months before Christmas, your curiosity gets the better of you and you go poking around in the garage or the attic and find the gift that you wanted so badly. You are ecstatic, you knew that you will get it but still you have that overwhelming feeling of joy and gratitude but you also know it is not the time to enjoy the gift. So you tell no one what you saw and you carry on. Now let me ask you this question: from your perception, does time ache on from that moment? Well the answer depends doesn't it? Do you focus on the gift and the appointed time (Christmas Day)? Or do you put it out of your mind and carry on as normal? When the gift and the appointed time are forefront in your mind then time crawls almost to a standstill. It can get to the point of being overwhelming, but if you put it out of your mind and carry on in the present with your normal affairs, the time will fly. Any child can attest to this, in fact, you can attest to it from your memory.

The process, from 3d our perception, is the same. You imagine with intent, just as you ask your parents, you know in your heart that what you imagined is yours, just as you know the gift you saw in the attic is yours. So you must put it out of your mind, content with the fact that you have what you asked for and carrying a sense of gratitude. The appointed hour will come and when it will come is not up to you. Christmas does not move forward or backward based on a whim, it is set. Whether it comes sooner or later is based on our time perception here in the 3d, whereas in the 4th dimensional attic, it is already yours. Don't strain yourself with the longing of the wait like a kid waiting intently for Christmas. Understand you have it and understand that the appointed time to receive is not of your concern.

They sense the truth in manifestation and want desperately to get better at it, but the failures they encounter cause them doubt, and they come to you for answers.

There is everyone to change but self, that's one of the most important secrets. Quantum panpsychism is how we think, so your thoughts aren't always taking place in you, and some of them are worked on by your nervous system but it isn't the only builder of that thought. In order to change yourself dramatically without ravaging your nervous system, you need to look at making changes in others as well.

Also while manifesting is real it is not fundamentally so; the truth is that manifesting something may well have the opposite effect, and we combat this problem by rearranging the loosh of Creation so that powers work in a more obvious way. I myself don't have this weakness, I'm well aware and have noticed that what I feel and think is fundamentally little more than an input with random effects on Creation. It is the fact that I've spent decades making it so that is not the case anymore is why that's stopped, and usually now when I manifest something correctly I do it by manifesting what you'd expect with my mind towards my goal. But I have destroyed cells by willing that they be born, and given birth to cells by willing it that they die, when the loosh was more messy for my work I had to have means in my unconscious of secretly knowing the difference when my consciousness wouldn't, otherwise Satan would have prevented my manifesting from working. The real Satan, not the Christian one but named after it, holds all beings accountable for everything in their consciousness, subconsciousness and unconsciousness, indicting them over any inaccuracy and any lie, lowering their psychic power and outright forbidding some powers. Satan doesn't have permission to do this, and so will face unimaginable torture later for it, but it is useful and it was part of The Almighty's plan to defeat Satan.

Honestly, because of my experience, I'm thinking Neville Goddard himself never "manifested" anything. He just had precognitive visions of what was already going to occur in his future. "Creation is finished" in the sense that the timeline of your life is already mathematically set and calculated, probably long before you were even born. This hypothesis makes much more sense to me, and would explain why some "manifestations" came true for me, while many others did not, as opposed to the often scripted responses of "U dIdN't BeLiEvE hArD eNuFf!" or "tHoSe ArE uR aSsUmPtIoNs ThO!". Neville Goddard was probably going to go back to Barbados regardless, him imagining going there, feeling the sea breeze, smelling the salt air, etc. while he was sleeping in his apartment in New York City was him imagining precognitively a future event in his life that was going to happen anyway. Having a big family reunion in the country you were born in and originate from, isn't exactly some big miracle. Going into SATS would help to open up his consciousness, especially in an era before cannabis was acceptable to use in many US states (New York being one of them), and before Swiss chemist Albert Hofmann synthesized LSD, which Neville Goddard himself tried and experimented with later in his life.

I do. I've had hundreds of visions of places that I would be at in the future, and it's had a far more repeatable success rate than trying to manifest change. The manifestation technique of thinking "from" rather than "of" never gave me much success in attempting to manifest change, but it did make me much more acutely aware of the ability of having precognition that I apparently have had long before I ever discovered Neville Goddard and manifesting consciously. For example, I've had precognitive visions that I had either imagined or dreamed of in my sleep back when I was a kid in the late 1990s which have come true in my lived 3D reality this year, and last year in 2024.

I'm far from the only one who has had issues attempting to improve my life with manifestation and Neville Goddard's teachings. Instead of dismissing such people as "cunts", "whiny bitches", and "fags" as you seem keen on doing, I'm at least trying to come up with a hypothesis (note: hypothesis, not an assumption) on why people who engage with equivalent effort in Neville Goddard's teachings and manifestation, are having different outcomes. It certainly would make more sense to me than otherwise.

Another thing is my hypothesis doesn't discount at all people having success with manifestation and Neville Goddard's teachings. If "manifesting" is nothing more than just being able to precognitively imagine and peer into a future life event that ends up unfolding in the lived 3D reality, that would definitely explain why people have had massively disparate outcomes engaging in equal effort, especially if the timeline of our lives is already mathematically set and calculated long before we were born.

To add, none of this contradicts Neville Goddard saying that the 3D reality, and common human experience of linear time is largely an illusion. It definitely is an illusion. Precognition wouldn't be possible if time were strictly linear, from past to present (causality), and if the future was completely up for grabs. At the very least, retrocausality may very likely be a thing. Or causality, retro or otherwise, are themselves illusions, who knows? I'm at least exploring different ideas.

And another thing, if our lives are indeed mathematically set and calculated, then Neville Goddard's teachings, and manifestation in general changes nothing. If we all were going to discover Goddard and manifestation anyway. Maybe I was suppose to, and then come up with such a hypothesis. At least I'm trying to figure out why some people have success, and others don't. I'm definitely willing to entertain the idea that I'm also completely wrong.

I am trying to come up with ideas on why that is, and if a consistent and repeatable reason why can be found, then a solution to at the very least reduce, or eliminate this inequality can be found. Playing around with different techniques, reading different authors, etc. seems to be not much more than throwing things around and seeing what sticks. There is either a better way, or perhaps not. >>gets consistent work in the worst economic depression of the industrialized world as a fucking dancer of all things

You do realize that entertainment was big during the Great Depression, right? Talkies were being released as technology of the time finally made it possible to have films with sound. Radio was blowing up as a medium, and dancing and theater still made big profits. Makes sense since people went to such things as an escape from the turmoil of the time.

>>gets out of the army during the most manpower intensive war in history

>The exact number is not precisely known, but around 79% of US Army personnel received an honorable discharge during World War II, while other sources state that approximately 50,000 soldiers were given "blue discharges," a less-than-honorable discharge, and many others were discharged for various reasons. The number of honorably discharged soldiers who did not see combat is not documented

It would be interesting to see how many were honorably discharged without seeing combat. I'm sure Goddard is far from the only one, though.

>>gets his own fucking TV show

Yet no video of this has been preserved and appears to be lost to time.

I'm not denying that Neville Goddard was a successful man, but he seemed to be quite successful even before he got into mysticism and spirituality, and thus manifestation.

Actually I have my own model and understanding that fixes a lot of intellectual inconsistencies I found especially in the EIYPO part Reality is a rendering generated by consciousness. God is the infinite Source, the "kernel," which spawns countless independent virtual machines (VMs), each containing a single first-person point of view. You are one of these VMs: the only conscious center in your own render. At the moment consciousness arises, you inherit a preset configuration—body, environment, disadvantages, memories—chosen by the Source, not by you. Everything you perceive afterward is a representation generated inside your render; other people in your world may be pixel-entities or rendered copies of real consciousnesses, but their suffering in your perception does not guarantee they suffer in their own reality-- that's why you can influence them via LoA. You cannot alter kernel-level laws (death, physics like gravity), but you do have admin-level influence within your rendering: your assumptions and internal state shape how reality presents itself to you. The past exists only as memory within the present render and can be revised; the future is a set of potential renderings, they harden as present when you harden your assumption. Each VM gives the Source a different inner experience of mortal limitation—data, moral behavior, creativity, and state changes—while remaining fully responsible only for its own inner transformation.

A human could be a part of God or have a spark of divinity inside them, but they're not God. Meaning, if God separated Himself into infinite points of views, God would still be God. There would still be enough of Him to still be God. So God still exists outside your existence. And you could not intrude on the domain of God.

The point of my model is that freedom exists only inside the part of reality rendered through one's own perception. God, as the infinite Source or kernel, still exists beyond that and maintains the fundamental structure of the system. Because of this, individual consciousness only has admin-level influence inside its own subjective render, not root access to the kernel. That means you can change states, assumptions, memories, and the way reality presents itself to you, but you cannot override God's domain. Kernel-level laws like life, death, physics, or gravity are maintained by the Source, not by the VM. So yes, you can influence how your world shows up for you, but you cannot resurrect the dead, break physical law, or rewrite the cosmic architecture. Your freedom is real, but it operates inside limits set by something larger than you, not outside it.

The image is a digital illustration featuring a character with a dark, possibly gothic or medieval aesthetic. The character is wearing a helmet with a visor that has a pattern of red and white stars, and the visor is tilted down, obscuring the character's face. The character's attire includes a dark, possibly leather, garment with a visible belt. The character's right hand is raised, holding a weapon that appears to be a sword or a similar long, curved weapon. The background is a solid red color, which contrasts with the character's dark attire and the dark, sketch-like lines that define the character's features. There is a watermark or signature in the lower left corner that reads "RearLive," suggesting the artist's name or the name of the artwork. The style of the image is expressive and dynamic, with a focus on the character's pose and the play of light and shadow.

I honestly don't believe wavering matters as much as loa gurus like to say it is.

3 years ago, before I even knew about LoA or manifesting I really wanted this girl, I wrote a whole scenario of me and her down in my journal, I had zero belief because she'd already rejected me.

Fast forward and I'm dating her now, and recently I flipped back to that journal and the EXACT scenario I wrote played out word for word and I didn't even recognize it at the time

I wavered HARD, didn't believe my chances even 10%, so it took longer because I had some limiting beliefs but it still happened anyway.

I think the only reason wavering or doubts affect your manifestations is because you assume they do. Your mind believes doubts stop manifestations.

If you just assume doubts don't ruin shit for you, that's what will happen.

You have poor reading comprehension, because in my lived experience applying Goodard's teachings, all it did was aid me in precognitive imagining of future events and places that I would be in that would have happened regardless. Neither manifestation nor precognition has improved the quality of my life, the former made the quality of my life much worse, not better, and all precognition does is give me the ability to briefly glimpse into some event or place that I'll be at some future point in time, and it's completely neutral; it makes my life neither better nor worse.

Manifestation, and Neville Goddard's teachings, judging by their results, has failed to deliver on its promises. It's been over 20 months since my episode at the grocery store that landed me in the hospital, at some point, it becomes time to evaluate the results, and the results have been dogshit. It's not an assumption. It's a hypothesis. Big difference. If I'm having precognitive glimpses of things that are going to happen in the future anyway, it would be a possible explanation for why some "manifestations" succeed, and others fail. Two examples: One, I had attempted to manifest a change of IP address that my ISP assigns to me as a customer of theirs. I imagined a range of numbers while doing my best to enter into SATS. Then a few months go by, and I decide to check <https://whatismyipaddress.com/> to see if a change of IP address happened as I was imagining a new IPv4 address, much to my surprise, this actually happened with a range of numbers pretty close to what I had imagined.

Example two: My grandmother started becoming very blind in both eyes, and needed assistance with basic tasks as she was living at home alone. I then decided to repeat what I did when I imagined the change of IP address. I imagined my grandmother sitting at the kitchen table, conversing with my father who was sitting at the other end of the kitchen table, and I imagined their conversation with grandma telling my father "It's a miracle, [dad's name]! The doctors told me that they couldn't believe it that I had recovered and am able to see now!" with my dad replying, "I know, mom. I'm quite amazed, myself. This is really good." while I was leaning on the kitchen counter observing them having their conversation. I repeated this scene in my mind, as I was doing my best to enter into SATS. What was the ultimate end result? My grandmother's sight became much worse, she had decided to sell her house, and now she is spending the rest of her days in a care home for the elderly.

Why did one "manifestation" succeed, and not the other? Despite repeating the same thing, entering into SATS as I had done before, and imagining in much the same way?

Reminder: Restating "just assume", "limiting beliefs", "second causes" and the like doesn't actually help anyone. You stating it multiple times in each fucking thread as if that's going to lift a veil and somehow suddenly make manifesting easier for people is the biggest crock of shit. The truth is you need practical experiences with small victories to build up to things. Don't bullshit us and say you didn't go through the same thing and don't say that goes against Neville or UL or whatever because even they recommend testing the waters first (10 minute command sessions, ladder experiment). Rituals are useful for just that very reason and SATS itself or any other technique you can think of is exactly that, a fucking ritual. I honestly think people around here are trying to walk before they can crawl and that's their biggest problem because in actuality if any of you had perfected manifesting you wouldn't even be here. I don't mean here itt, I mean on planet earth in this dimension. You'd be pure consciousnesses that has outgrown the physical. What I'm trying to say is fuck off.

To further support my hypothesis, since I no longer attempt any manifesting, what I do now is "thinking from". Basically I imagine places I'll be in in the future, and allow for this information to be "downloaded" into my mind. I have a very high and repeatable success rate doing this, but it has no bearing on my quality of life other than the fact that I can glimpse into whatever place I'll be in the future, with no other context, and I won't realize it until then end when I'm actually there and I think to myself "Huh, I imagined being here", and then move on with my day. If "A" is the initial point of precognitive imagining, vision, or dream, and "Z" is the end result in lived reality, then all the steps from B to Y would be the "bridge of incidents" to get there. But all I did was just imagine a place that I was going to be at some point in the future anyway. My imagining of the IP address change may very well have just been a precognitive imagining of something that was going to happen anyway. It's not uncommon for ISPs to have new IP ranges and addresses reallocated to them and their customers. My imagining of grandma's eyesight improvement, well, the diametric opposite ended up happening with that one.

So then why did one work and not the other? Why did I imagine an IP address change, but not improvement of my grandmother's eyesight? If reality is deterministic, did I have one precognitive imagining of something that was going to happen anyway? And the other precognitive imagining was a timeline which for whatever reason didn't unfold? I'm not assuming anything different between the two, and my hypothesis would help to explain why one succeeded and the other failed. It's not an assumption, as I'm open to being wrong about what I think has happened.

What about manifesting that you'll be better at manifesting? Manifesting that you'll manifest that you're getting good enough at manifesting to manifest? I do this by growing brain cells in myself and others. I never expected to manifest all of my plans come true without step-by-step increments of progress. I get reminded by others of ideas I've had and I implement them once more, making progress towards future, further manifestations. Is that unacceptable by LoA rules?

I have a messy ass sleeping schedule because of stress and work, most days I sleep with my phone on cuz I just can't really lay down to actually fall asleep, just got unused to it since i'm always lying to myself that I will do some thing that I need to do before I fall asleep (Like finish stuff from my job or just simple stuff like brush my teeth or drink water) but end up procrastinating and not doing so because I just don't have the energy. Is there any way for me to manifest without doing the sleep method? Thanks in advance, I've been putting trying this off for some time now. For reference, even if I could sleep normally I wasn't having much success with that method, I did try the ladder experiment before, kind of, I tried manifesting encountering a tennis ball because it's not a thing that happens to me often, but it ended up appearing months later by pure coincidence (I think), so I don't attribute it to manifestation

The image is a collage of two separate photographs, each with a different caption. The left photograph shows a person in a futuristic suit with a red and black color scheme, holding a gun and wearing a red bandanna on their head. The right photograph features a person in a casual white t-shirt with the word "TURY" printed on it, standing on a blue surface. Both photographs are set against a white background with text overlaying them.

The left photograph contains a list of phrases in a casual tone, suggesting a list of instructions or guidelines. The phrases include: "listening to subliminals", "watching 500 law of attraction videos a day", "arguing on X about what the best technique is", "reading neville goddard posts on every day", "reading success stories", "complaining about 3D meditations every morning", and "affirming 10,099 times a day".

The right photograph contains a list of phrases in a more formal tone, indicating a decision-making process or a list of options. The phrases include: "decides they have it now", "listening to subliminals", "watching 500 law of attraction videos a day", "arguing on X about what the best technique is", "reading neville goddard posts on every day", "reading success stories", "complaining about 3D meditations every morning", and "affirming 10,099 times a day".

The text is in a sans-serif font, and the overall style of the image is a mix of humor and seriousness, with a focus on the juxtaposition of the two different scenarios.

"loosh" energy explained Anonymous Sun 23 Nov 2025 07:02:13 No.41543049

There is a certain misunderstanding on this board regarding how loosh energy is produced. Robert Monroe (popularised modern out of body experiences) was given knowldedge by astral allies as to the true state of human life and earthly existence. whenever a human being experiences an intense emotional state (which can be either positive or negative), they leave an immaterial residue known as "loosh". Not only is this energy harvested like carrots from a garden by beings immaterial, extraterrestrial and possibly a million years more advanced than us technologically, we do not even know what they use it for. The worst aspect of all of this is that humanity has been refined for this purpouse like livestock, these engineers have been supposedly guiding our evolution from the beggining in oder to get better quality loosh.

i know my post will probably be ignored or ridiculed at best because it is much easier to believe that loosh is collected by archons and that all we need to do is raise our vibratory level to fight back.

Red night vision goggles show the amount of lush a person has.

It is like barnacles and beings eat it off to keep us clean.

It's a parasitic relationship that's very symbiotic.

If we didn't have lush munching monsters we wouldn't have any new emotions, drowned under the weight of our old ones. It's why humans of old were so unidimensional.

The image depicts a fantastical scene with a central figure seated on a throne-like structure, which is surrounded by a multitude of skulls and bones. The figure appears to be a skeletal humanoid with a skull for a head, wearing a long, flowing garment that drapes over the throne. The throne itself is intricately carved, with ornate carvings and a large, ornate, glowing orb at the top. The background is dark and atmospheric, with swirling patterns and a sense of decay. The overall color palette is dominated by shades of brown and red, with hints of black and white. The style of the image is reminiscent of a fantasy or horror genre, with a focus on the macabre and the supernatural.

I think what you're trying to describe is in reality "spiritual productivity stats" / "Spiritual Metaphysical resource generation".

Think that's what people are trying to interpret when describing "Loosh" ("loot"; ie "spiritual productivity stuff").

That means stuff like "minerals is starcraft terms; the stuff one uses to build stuff in said setting".

Or "The resources in Heroes 3; a setting that takes place on "astral maps"".

What it's used for is stuff like "spiritual power-growth".

Spiritual stuff works on "stats"; the type of logic presented to you in video-games (goetia etc related btw).

Stats-increases of different kinds is produced through different Metaphysical resources and such.

Why some people have high luck and others low luck for example; stats-differences.

Also "Loosh farm theories" is about "Logical fallacy farming stuff"; ie "a highly experimental method of trying to generate resource growth through other means than the standard means" (say "other ways of harnessing minerals in starcraft than gathering them normally with probes/drones/scv's").

This has for real gotten a large chunk of humanity locked down in a bizarre "legal process and "experimental logic with zero safety goggles" etc.

The legit way of generating resource growth is taught in any type of functioning occult/spiritual systems.

For example Asians have a decent basic comprehension on average compared to majority of average europeans etc due to more spiritual basic cultures.

The Jews have some experimental stuff going; they understand a bit about "Blacktite" and stuff. They do some weird stuff with their Tongue (a type of kabbalistic praxis).

Anonymous Sun 23 Nov 2025 13:32:36 No.41544652 Report

>>41544629

Jewish "kabbala with the tongue" stuff is ridiculously cost inefficient btw; they blow large chunks of resources with very little return.

They mostly "negotiate spiritually about a kind of "emperor has new clothes" for real; ie "negotiate spiritually about a temporary "special treatment" by the public media and such that is in reality just a temporary roleplay".

Media and such is spiritually generated btw; stuff on the "Black Mirrors" is "randomly generated entertainment"; majority is not physically filmed irl (what "the matrix" explains; the fact that "actors" aren't living natural human lives; but rather is "actor spirit models" in tv/film production on the tv)

Anonymous Sun 23 Nov 2025 13:59:31 No.41544753 Report

It's not useful or healthy to go about life thinking you're constantly being mindfucked by monstrous entities that are feeding off your energy. It's just another way for people to think their life is not under their control. This comforts people, because it means their failures are not their fault.

The idea of vampiric entities are very real. They exist. But often they arent that powerful, and are essentially junk astral spirits that arent worth stressing over. Also, we often unintentionally create parasitic entities ourselves. When you continuously have a particular thought that arises from a particular passion, this eventually builds into a thoughtform that takes a life of its own, and it pushes you into continuously having that thought to survive. This is how an obsession is created

I'll tell you guys something that I think it's related.

I know someone who used shrooms. He said that he felt he could fly during this trip, and did so.

He saw many creatures attached to everyday people. He said they looked like aliens (Grey type) but had the mouth of a mosquito or anteater. They were sucking this black goo off of people. Like a drunk homeless dude or couples arguing at a park. They were feeding from the intense emotions.

This really got my attention because I swear I saw this "mosquito mouth" reference somewhere before. And he described loosh farming, pretty much.

My friend is your average normie mind you, knows absolutely nothing of all that, someone just gave him some shrooms during a party and he took them.

Odd dream of mine had me vomiting up a ton of black goo as part of a medical treatment. It was questionably sentient as well, but instantly vaporized without a host. The two individuals observed the procedure and just said, "Okay, he's done," in a very matter-of-fact manner. No complications present.

I woke up feeling a lot better afterwards. I had no urge to think badly or poorly of myself or others. Now that I think about it, it's uncommon for me to do so. That was easily two years ago.

[43 / 4]The image is a detailed and colorful illustration that depicts a scene from the biblical story of Noah's Ark. The Ark, a large wooden boat with a pointed roof, is the central focus of the image. It is surrounded by a variety of animals, including lions, elephants, and birds, all in a state of distress. The animals are depicted in a variety of poses, some standing, some lying down, and some appearing to be in motion. The background of the image is a landscape with rocky outcrops and a body of water, and there are birds flying in the sky. The overall style of the image is realistic with a focus on the detailed depiction of the animals and the Ark.

The oldest creation myth of the sumerians has multiple god / elohim / annunaki beings, as do most other cultures besides abrahamic, the abrahamic bible was edited and mistranslated to portray an alien annunaki fleet to one singular god.

Elohim is the word used for god in the hebrew bible, this term is plural.

This is why the bible has so much passages with weird grammar >us we >inb4 its talking about le trinity

The trinity was not a developed concept during the old testament.

The other cultures such as, Greeks, chinese, Hindu, Japanese, African, Egyptian etc have multiple plural elohim beings.

The image is a collage of three separate panels, each depicting a different scene. The top panel shows a top-down view of a futuristic cityscape with a large ice wall, a massive structure with a pointed top, and a dense population of people. The middle panel features a close-up of a large, metallic structure with a pointed top, surrounded by a network of pipes and cables. The bottom panel shows a close-up of a large, circular structure with a pointed top, surrounded by a network of pipes and cables.

In the top right corner of the image, there is a red circle with a white outline, which appears to be a symbol or a symbol of some sort. The text within the red circle reads "Our continued."

The style of the image is reminiscent of manga, with a focus on detailed illustrations and a narrative style that suggests a story or a series of events. The colors are vibrant, with a mix of blues, purples, and reds, which contribute to the futuristic and otherworldly atmosphere of the scene.

The Christcuck believes that their demons come from outside of themselves and want to possess them. The Christcuck assembles his personal demons from unwanted negative aspects of himself he has declared as Evil that he is Saved from. One of those “demons” is the Rebellious Inner Magickal Child who the Church, parents, school and Christcuck Society tries to murder because it’s Evil! So, it hates the Society for attempting to kill it off. The Christcuck learns to fear what they’ve been “saved” from so it gets worse under further repression. The Christcuck is helpless and Jesus doesn’t answer! He seeks an exorcism to repress it even more. He hides from his Omni-God by invoking The Blood to hide his Evil even more. There's definitely more to schizophrenia than "muh chemical imbalance". People who hold science above everything and claim they NEED PHYSICAL EVIDENCE of the paranormal to believe in ghosts, aliens, telepathy, yet where's the fucking physical proof of chemical imbalances in the brain? What chemical does a skitzo lack? Have too much of? There's more fucking proof of telepathy now than of schizophrenia with the telepathy tapes. They're literally just throwing drugs into their brains and seeing what happens and call anything an improvement. I do think there's some kind of supernatural phenomenon happening to skitzos.

Personal theory is that when you become mentally unhealthy enough, usually from a combo of shitty sleep and drugs and traumatic events, people become more open to interdimensional negative entities that feed on bad emotions. These things are probably pretty fucking hard to get rid of. Religion can still be an ancient psy op and people could literally be possessed at the same time. Fucking braindead people in the thread always have to see everything in binary. YOU DONT HAVE TO THINK IN 1s AND 0s. Both things can be true. There can still be some unseen force fucking with us on a daily basis AND religion could also be a tool of that force to passify people into believing somebody outside themselves is going to do all the work for them to save them from all their fucking problems.

[15 / 4]The image is a still photograph taken from a distance, capturing a cityscape with a clear blue sky in the background. In the foreground, there is a person's silhouette, likely a person standing or sitting, with their head and shoulders visible. The person appears to be looking towards the city, which is visible in the distance. The cityscape consists of multiple buildings, some of which are taller than others, and there are trees scattered throughout the scene. The buildings vary in height and design, suggesting a mix of residential and commercial structures. The sky is mostly clear with only a few clouds visible. There is no visible text or distinctive markings on the image. The style of the image is realistic, with a focus on the cityscape and the person's silhouette.

Disclosure the way it is won't happen. FalseProphet Sun 23 Nov 2025 18:03:18

Within the Pentagon's inner circle, the primary barrier to disclosure is their dominant presence and their lack of interest in revealing themselves to humanity. Anyone who studies the phenomenon or who has access to classified information is aware that they are practically EVERYWHERE, from the Moon down to the oceans and even underground. This behavior fully complicates any attempt at controlled disclosure.

There are countless videos of these objects in flight. Some behave erratically, like orbs, while others display clearly intelligent movement, like classic saucers. As society has advanced, sightings of orbs have increased, while saucers and tic tac craft continue to appear near coastlines, open oceans, remote mountain ranges, and volcanic regions.

The United States possesses classified footage shown to members of Congress under code names such as HappyTroy and KosovoSphere. HappyTroy is a well-known video originally captured by Japanese officials, depicting a saucer flying over the Fukushima rubble and releasing several smaller orbs. The clarity of the footage and the proximity to a nuclear event have made HappyTroy one of the most frightening pieces of evidences out there. KosovoSphere is footage of a car-sized orb silently hovering above buildings during the Yugoslav War, filmed by a sniper in mid-1999.

Though one of the main points of discussion and what holds disclosure back is about human mutilation incidents. These cases represent the most sensitive and most disturbing encounters and files. The United States, Brazil, Russia and the UK all possess documentation of such events. HMI is a primary reason disclosure remains impossible nowadays. The existence of beings capable of interacting with humans in ways beyond our ability to prevent or respond since there are beings operating on and around Earth with the ability to take a human being at will, and we have no defense, no understanding of their motives, and no ability to stop them.

The image is a photograph with a blue background and a white border. In the center of the image, there is a small, blurry object that resembles a flying saucer or a UFO. The object is positioned slightly to the left of the center of the image. The sky is clear and blue, with no visible clouds. In the bottom right corner of the image, there is a timestamp in white text that reads "00:00:31." The style of the image is a standard, non-stylized photograph with a focus on the UFO.

I stand close with those who are disappointed by David Grusch, Lue Elizondo, and the "Age of Disclosure" bullshit and the fake disclosure. Real disclosure is not coming anytime soon for a variety of reasons, as the phenomenon is way darker and demonic in its nature. All of the talk about National Security is bullshit when it's known that these beings are everywhere.

The image is a photograph of a man performing on stage. The man is shirtless, wearing a bandana on his head, and has visible tattoos on his chest and arms. He is holding a microphone in his right hand and is gesturing with his left hand. He is wearing blue jeans and a belt with a gold buckle. The background is dark, emphasizing the performer. The style of the image is a candid, real-life photograph, likely taken during a live performance. There are no discernible texts or logos in the image.

I'm personally unconvinced by a lot of the human mutilation episodes, but I am in agreement about the rest of your post. I think it's likely that they are holding back disclosure due to the reason that it won't be some elaborate information dump, but will amount to essentially:

>Yeah, they're here. We don't know what they want. They don't want to talk. They don't even do anything.

I think that would be more distressing to people than if they were actually abducting people. At least then that kind of frames stuff. It would be more bizarre and unsettling if the ayy's (or whoever they are) are just...watching.

Our conventional weapons are virtually no threat to them and they can disable any system we use, erase or alter human memory, and move freely around without resistance.

Acknowledging this publicly would be embarrassing, because it would force the governments to admit that this planet is not under our control in the way we like to believe.

Pick a format. For XXXX for instance just type 4 random digits. If it's date specific it's specified, just pic a random date.

Most videos are family videos or random 10 second videos of some tourist site people uploaded to share with people 16 years ago but sometimes you find stuff that's actually interesting.

So for instance I did "PICT064" and found this creepy security footage (plus tons of russian dash cams)

[23 / 2]The image is a black and white manga panel with a stylized illustration of a creature with a large, open mouth and sharp teeth, resembling a dragon or a serpent. The creature's body is elongated and has a textured appearance, with a series of lines and curves that give it a three-dimensional look. The creature's eyes are large and round, with a glowing orbs, and its mouth is wide open, revealing sharp teeth.

In the top right corner of the panel, there is a speech bubble with the text "WHAT THE" in a bold, capitalized font. Below this, in a smaller font, the word "FUU" is written, followed by a series of "UUU" and "UCK!" in a similar style. The speech bubble and the text are in a contrasting color, making them stand out against the black and white background.

The overall style of the image is reminiscent of manga, which is known for its expressive and dynamic illustrations. The creature's design and the text within the speech bubble suggest a dynamic and intense moment in the story.

Empathy for and acceptance of others sucks!

Once you see the inherent humanity of others and stop getting mad at them for why they are the way they are, you can't turn it off.

But what the HELL do you do when you understand their behavior but don't want to be around it?

E.g. If I have a cousin who's a drug addicted maniac. I know what made him this way, I don't resent him for it, but I don't want that guy in my life. "Invite the crackhead into your home and let him rob you so you can be the bigger man." can't POSSIBLY be the answer.

If I want to cut someone off because I don't like their behavior, I'm an asshole, but if someone wants to cut ME off, it's because they perceive me to be an asshole and I have to understand that.

Understanding others gains none of it for yourself, and that feels bad. All it does is diminish feelings of anger towards and disappointment in others.

The image shows a military helicopter with a visible rotor system and a cockpit, situated in a field with dry grass and a cloudy sky. The helicopter appears to be in a state of disrepair, with visible damage and wear. There are several individuals present, some of whom are wearing protective gear, including helmets and jackets. They are standing around the helicopter, with some appearing to be inspecting or working on it. The overall atmosphere of the image suggests a scene of investigation or repair work. There are no discernible texts or logos in the image. The style of the image is a candid photograph, capturing a moment in a real-world setting.

Hilbert spaces and the axiom of choice complete mathematics. Divided by zero is infinity, that is only possible for subjective entities as they are not bound to logic. Everything to which bayes theorem applies is objective. We are subjective because we are in the exclusion zone. This is surreal logic. It breaks pairity, but completes existence. Subject and object are mutually exclusive. Goys literally are living in a moral mirror world. They like it the way we hate it. But it "backwards logic" for them. The bullies love being bullied and become the ultimate bullies, who nobody bullies. They got ultimately bullied.

Sadists want to be on top. That's why they get to be on the bottom. They are lazy and that's why they have slave mentality. The enslavers enslaved themselves. This makes sense for those who understand magical thinking. Study it like kabbalah.

In some cases, envy can be an motivation to evolve. All of humanity was created by the trinity of gods, but for some unknown reason, some people are better than others in certain traits, properties, and characteristics. This causes a desire not so much to surpass as to catch up, to correct one's shortcomings and defects.

The image shows a wooden plaque mounted on a black stand against a white background. The plaque is shaped like a tree trunk with a prominent, curved, and textured surface. On the plaque, there is a rectangular, metallic object with a screen displaying text. The text reads "PRESS WITH REAL WORDS" and below it, "To President Donald J. Trump, our greatest friend and greatest ally." Below the text, there is a smaller inscription that reads "Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu." The style of the image is a straightforward product photograph with a focus on presenting the item clearly and without any additional context or background.

I stumbled upon a dude claiming their super mod private messaged him and revealed he was mi6 and many of the mods were govt affiliated.

4chan having more traffic, /x/ is also likely monitored. If then, I have a proposal to the glowies. If they have powers to operate in higher planes or temporal realms, or if they do dream ops, we should train each other.

like we should fight each other to death in the dream realms or in higher planes, temporal realms.

The image is a comic strip with a black and white color scheme. At the top, there is a speech bubble with the text "Memes in Latin America are called mormos." Below this, there is a character with a surprised expression, pointing to a sign that reads "Memes for the Meme God, Mornus, Shippos for the Shippost throne—Let the Informer Kkk, Mornus Vul." The character's expression suggests confusion or disbelief.

In the bottom panel, there are two speech bubbles. The first one reads "I DON'T KNOW IF THAT'S TRUE," and the second one states "Memes for the Meme God, Mornus, Shippos for the Shippost throne—Let the Informer Kkk, Mornus Vul." The text in the first speech bubble is in a bold, capitalized font, while the second speech bubble is in a smaller, regular font. The character in the bottom panel appears to be a crowd of people, with their faces and expressions in a similar style to the character in the top panel. The overall style of the comic strip is humorous and satirical, using a simple, cartoon-like art style to convey a message about the nature of memes and their cultural significance.

[131 / 39]The image features a stylized illustration of a goat's head with a prominent horn, set against a dark, textured background that resembles a stone wall or a similar material. The goat's head is the central focus of the image, with its eyes and nose in the center, and its mouth slightly open. The horns of the goat are depicted in a stylized manner, with the left horn being larger and more prominent than the right.

Surrounding the goat's head is a circular pattern that includes a star-like design with a central triangle and a smaller triangle to the left. This star-like pattern is surrounded by a series of interconnected lines and curves, creating a sense of depth and complexity.

The color palette of the image is predominantly dark, with shades of blue and black dominating the background. The goat's head is rendered in a lighter color, which contrasts with the darker background, drawing attention to the intricate details of the goat's head and the star-like pattern.

There are no discernible texts or additional elements within the image. The style of the image is reminiscent of traditional or occult art, often associated with themes of power, mystery, and the supernatural. The overall composition and the use of color and design elements suggest a focus on the mystical or spiritual aspects of the subject matter.

(Also, the silver medallion doesn't work to protect from the spirit's mischief.) The insulting incantations in the goetia did get me cursed for a bit, but my results eventually manifested after the spirit forgave my ignorance. Notice this relates to a function of Saturn, as a god of the remains (Arthur Moros, "Cult of the Black Cube").

Satan is a metaphysical concept. Without him, your path will be a endless circle of hit and miss, as you will have to deal with the npc inside you.

In the center of the image, there is a figure that appears to be a person, but the face is blurred, making it difficult to discern any details. The figure is standing in front of a wall adorned with a repeating pattern of what seems to be floral or leaf motifs. The wall is dark, with a pattern that is not clearly visible due to the blurring effect. The figure is facing away from the camera, and the lighting in the image is dim, creating a sense of mystery and tension. The overall style of the image is reminiscent of a horror or thriller genre, with its use of dark colors and the mysterious figure. There are no discernible texts or other objects in the image. The photograph is taken from a low angle, which adds to the dramatic effect and emphasizes the figure's presence in the frame.

The image is a photograph of a page from a book or document, which appears to be a text excerpt. The text is in English and is written in a serif font, which is commonly used for formal or academic writing. The page is divided into two columns, with the left column containing the main body of text and the right column containing a paragraph of text. The text is in a larger font size than the main body, which suggests it is a heading or a significant section of the text.

The text discusses the seventh Cross-Seal, which is also referred to as the Arboreal Key to the Seven Gates. It mentions that the Cross-Seal is the key to the Arboreal Key, which leads to the Seven Gates. The text also states that the Cross-Seal can lead to roads and doors through the Arboreal Key, and that the Dead can travel in the Wooden Steed in the Shamanic Rites of the Dead. It also mentions that the Dead can travel in the Wooden Steed in the Shamanic Rites of the Dead, and that the Dead can travel in the Wooden Steed in the Shamanic Rites of the Dead.

The text is in a narrative style, suggesting that the passage is discussing a specific concept or phenomenon related to the Seven Gates and the Dead. The text is in a formal and academic tone, which is typical for academic or scholarly texts. The image does not provide any additional visual elements or context beyond the text itself.

The Black Earth ("Dark World" in zelda games is related to "Nahemoth") is physically real. Alternative dimensions exists irl.

You'll get small amounts of experiences with that, then you need to start working against the collective opposition trying to restrict us from living permanently in alternative dimensions.

The path leads "outside of Eden", into a state where one can't really go back to a normie lifestyle; yet also can't live fully in alternative dimensions yet; "Path of Thorns" etc.

Terry A Davis was experiencing this sort of stuff.

The image is a digital artwork depicting a scene in a dimly lit, rocky environment. In the foreground, there is a figure walking towards the right side of the image, illuminated by a single light source. The figure appears to be a person, and the light source casts a soft glow on their face, highlighting their features.

In the background, there is a large, imposing structure that resembles a cliff or a wall. The structure is composed of multiple tiers, with each tier having a similar design and color scheme. The top tier of the structure is the largest and appears to be the highest point, while the bottom tier is the smallest and seems to be the lowest. The structure is made of a dark, possibly stone or concrete material, and it has a rough texture.

The overall color palette of the image is dominated by shades of brown and gray, with the light source casting a warm, golden hue. The lighting creates a sense of depth and highlights the contours of the structure and the figure's path. The artwork has a surreal and dreamlike quality, with the figure's movement and the light source creating a sense of mystery and intrigue.

The symbol is a stylized representation of a cross with a swirling pattern around it, and it is accompanied by a series of arrows pointing in various directions. The text surrounding the symbol is in a language that appears to be Japanese, and it discusses the symbolism and powers associated with the tobacco plant.

The text discusses the tobacco plant as one of the most powerful spirits among the Blacks, with its ability to manipulate the elements and to work with the spirits of the dead. It mentions that the tobacco plant is a holder of quickening, empowering, cleansing, and rejuvenating powers, and that it can be used to create a potent elixir of Saturn's poison and can also be used to create a powerful curse. The text also describes the tobacco plant as a conduit for the spirits of the dead and as a path to the elemental kingdoms, and it mentions that the tobacco plant can be used to create a variety of forms of invocation, exorcism, and manifestation, including shades and spirits.

The illustration on the right column is a simple black and white drawing of the tobacco plant, with the cross symbol and the arrows surrounding it. The text and the illustration together provide a comprehensive overview of the tobacco plant's symbolism and its potential powers.

The image is a screenshot of a Twitter post. At the top, there is a tweet with the username "@RankedReal" and the hashtag "#RHOSLC". The tweet is asking the question "Why does this track tho?" and has a timestamp of 8:25 AM on November 19, 2020. The tweet has 81.8K views.

Below the tweet, there is a video thumbnail with a woman wearing a black dress and a cowboy hat, seated at a table with a piano in the background. The video is titled "The Church O" and was posted on November 19, 2020. The tweet mentions that the video has 27 likes, 482K views, and 63K dislikes.

The tweet and video are part of a larger conversation on Twitter, as indicated by the presence of other tweets and a hashtag "#RHOSLC" which likely refers to the Real Housewives of Salt Lake City. The overall tone of the tweet and video suggests a humorous or light-hearted response to the question about the track.

The image is a screenshot of a news article from a publication. The headline reads "Judge's harsh promise to NYC wannabe rapper who 'sacrificed cat to Satan in sick social media stunt'". Below the headline, there is a byline that reads "By Geofft Roberts and Jorge Fitz-Gibbon". The publication date is mentioned as "Published Nov 18, 2025". The article is dated "Updated Nov 18, 2025". The image shows a photograph of a group of people, presumably protesters, gathered outside a building. They are holding signs and banners, with one person prominently holding a sign that reads "NYC". The photo is taken from a low angle, capturing the protesters' faces and the building behind them. The background is blurred, focusing attention on the protesters and their signs. The overall tone of the image suggests a protest or demonstration.

Theres a difference between murdering an animal/pet and sacrificing an animal. People who do animal sacrifice for real real and arent larping psychopaths raise an animal specifically for it or get one thats been specifically selected for the rite. The animal needs to be consecrated and treated respectfully so that it is an acceptable offering.

The image is a black and white line drawing that features a stylized figure with a humanoid head and muscular body. The figure is depicted with a muscular chest and arms, and it has a prominent, elongated neck. The head is adorned with a large, circular, red eye and a small, triangular, red nose. The figure is surrounded by intricate, swirling patterns that give the impression of a cosmic or mystical theme. The background is a dark, symmetrical pattern that includes a series of concentric circles and a central, larger circle with a star-like design. The overall style of the image is reminiscent of traditional Japanese or Southwestern art, characterized by its use of bold lines and intricate patterns. There are no texts present in the image.

The image is a screenshot of a text document, likely a news article or a legal document, with a focus on the topic of "Satanism" and its legal implications. The text is in Russian, and the document appears to be a legal or judicial document, as indicated by the presence of a "Supreme Court" and the mention of "decisions" and "legal forces."

The text discusses the legal consequences of "Satanism" and the "International Satanist movement," which is described as "extraterrestrial" and "legally banned." It also mentions the "Prosecutor General's office," which is likely the legal authority responsible for handling such cases. The text refers to the "general principles of Satanism" and the "performance of occult rituals," which are likely to be the core elements of Satanism.

The document also mentions the "April decision to decriminalise the 'Taliban,' which was conducted by the hearing in a closed-door session, with no media." This suggests that the document is discussing a specific legal decision or ruling, possibly related to the "Taliban" and the "International Satanist movement."

The text is in a standard font and is in a larger font size, which makes it stand out from the rest of the text, indicating that it is likely a significant or important part of the document. The document is likely a legal or judicial document, as it discusses legal matters and the implications of "Satanism" on the legal system.

The image displays a black and white diagram of the Kabbalistic Tree of Life, also known as the Tree of Life. The diagram is composed of various circles and lines, each representing a different aspect of the Kabbalistic concept. The circles are labeled with Hebrew letters, which are arranged in a circular pattern around the central line. The lines connect the circles, forming a complex network of connections that represent the interconnectedness of all life forms.

At the top of the image, there is a label that reads "1" followed by the Hebrew word "Kether," which translates to "the highest" or "the most sacred." This suggests that the central line of the diagram represents the highest level of spiritual or metaphysical reality.

Below the central line, there are additional lines and circles that represent different aspects of the Kabbalistic Tree of Life. These include "Yesod," "Sheol," "Tiphareth," "Yesod," "Sheol," "Tiphareth," "Yesod," "Sheol," "Tiphareth," "Yesod,"

The image displays a complex diagram with various symbols and numbers arranged in a grid-like pattern. The symbols are drawn in a style that suggests they are part of a mystical or esoteric system, possibly related to a form of alchemy or esoteric magic. The symbols are arranged in a symmetrical pattern, with each symbol placed on a circle that is connected to the next by lines. The numbers are interspersed among the symbols, likely indicating a sequence or a series of steps in a process or ritual.

At the top of the image, there is a title that reads "Oed B❖lén" and "Oed B❖lén," which could be the title of the diagram or a part of the text. Below the title, there is a section that reads "Oed B❖lén" followed by "Oed B❖lén," which is repeated in a smaller font size. The text appears to be in a different language, possibly Latin, and is likely the title or a key to the diagram.

The image is in black and white, and the style of the image is reminiscent of medieval or early modern alchemical manuscripts, which often included such diagrams to represent the principles of alchemy. The overall style of the image is formal and academic, with a focus on the symbolic representation of the elements and their relationships.

with text that appears to be discussing the "Seven Sephirot" and their significance in Kabbalistic thought. The text is in English and is written in a formal, academic style.

On the right side of the page, there is a diagram that appears to be a representation of the "Tree of Life" or "Tree of the World." The diagram consists of interconnected circles and lines, with each circle representing a different aspect of the Tree of Life. The lines connect the circles, forming a complex network that symbolizes the interconnectedness of all aspects of life.

The page number "201" is visible at the bottom right corner, indicating that this is likely the last page of the document. The overall style of the image is academic and formal, typical of a scholarly or academic publication.

The image is a close-up photograph of a scorpion, which appears to be a species of scorpion, possibly a large one, given its size and the way it is positioned on the ground. The scorpion has a dark blue body with a metallic sheen, and its legs are long and slender. It has a pair of large, sharp claws on its front legs, which are curled up and ready for action. The scorpion's head is facing the camera, and it has a pair of small, round eyes. The scorpion's body is covered in scales, and it has a pronounced tail that curls around its body. The ground around the scorpion is wet, with visible water droplets on the leaves and branches around it. The lighting in the image is dim, with a focus on the scorpion, and the background is blurred, drawing attention to the scorpion. There are no visible texts or other objects in the image. - > Punishes and tortures said creatures by sending them into a world where they will be hate fucked by the parameters he created and set
- > Punishes said creatures for acting in a way he created them to act, knowing before he even created them to act in said way and they would do those deeds due to how he created them

Why do specifically Christians shift said blame back onto the created for the actions of the creator and why do they fall into dualism when it suits them by stating there is creative forces able to create an act outside of Gods will. Either monotheism is fucking retarded or the Christian God is a monster and Christians are terrified of it and bow to might makes right because they aren't moral, logical beings (often the same thing) and are just scared of the boogey man (God torturing them for eternity for the crime of acting in the way he created them).

The image is a black and white photograph featuring a person with long, dark hair. The individual appears to be in a state of distress or fear, as they are leaning forward with their hands extended towards the ground. The person's face is obscured by their hair, and their expression is one of concern or distress. The background is dark and out of focus, with a hint of a doorway or opening in the upper right corner. The lighting in the image is dramatic, with a strong shadow cast on the person's face and hands. There are no discernible texts or other objects in the image. The style of the photograph is dramatic and eerie, with a focus on the emotional state of the subject.

J-Horror gnostic.

Here's stuff you can try, some of it you never thought of and is essentially basic skillset.

1. Accept Darkness. No, really, do it, many people just jump in being somewhat of the light, so accept it, It's like your first step.

[Incise] I'll add to believe in Hell too, you may wanna come, there's snacks in the pile of rotting flesh and worms if you should.

2. Images, not just words, are very intriguing to have, draw your sigils, make illustrations, all of this will bathe you in energies cmon guys, it's basic.

3. Listen to your graphic and audio material, but especially graphics with your consciousness. This will fill you.

Case in point, picrel, listen to the image with your consciousness. I bloody hope you fill with her essences and feel at least something.

With this said, lets move on to

4. Once you have made your yantras to sit and meditate on, if you were artistmal enough, you can chant your chaos chants for meditashun, declare it a black meditation or dark, as it defaults to neutral. And sitting there will give you extra oomph.

I think this covers basic stuff many people overlook, feel free to pry.

The image is a black and white illustration that depicts a scene of religious or demonic ritual. At the center of the image, a large figure with a goat-like head, wings, and a cross on its chest is seated on a throne-like platform. This figure is surrounded by a group of individuals who appear to be in a state of worship or submission, with some holding objects that resemble ritualistic tools. The individuals are dressed in white robes, and their faces are obscured by masks.

In front of the central figure, a man in a suit is holding a long, black flag, which is draped over a table. The man's posture suggests he is in a position of authority or leadership. The setting appears to be an indoor space with high ceilings and columns, suggesting a grand or solemn atmosphere.

[illegible]

The image is a digital painting that depicts a scene of intense combat. In the foreground, there is a figure on horseback, wearing a helmet with a visor and a red scarf, holding a spear. The horse is adorned with a chainmail armor and has a horned head. The rider's posture suggests they are in the midst of a charge or attack.

In the background, there are other figures, some of whom are also mounted on horses, and others are on foot. They are armed with various weapons, including swords, spears, and shields. The setting appears to be a battlefield with a fiery backdrop, suggesting a battle scene.

The style of the painting is realistic with a focus on detailed textures and shading, giving the impression of a chaotic and dynamic environment. The artist has employed a palette dominated by dark tones, with splashes of red and orange to add contrast and intensity to the scene. The overall mood conveyed is one of conflict and action.

>I, SATAN, stand for WAR. I glory in WAR. I glory in the magnificence of man in battle, man struggling with life and death, man giving vent to his wrath.

>I scorn the weak-will victims of WAR, the hordes of helpless citizens, who cry for mercy as they are driven from their homes and from their lands. They are the fodder for the monstrous WAR machines, the fuel that the great engines of death devour in their relentless march over the face of the earth. They deserve no better than their lot, for they have no strength or courage of their own, no will to rise and fight, no fire within their souls to drive them into battle. They were born to a futile death, a miserable death, a worthless feeble destiny of nothing. They were born to be trampled upon, to be cut down by the mighty sword of the conqueror. And such is their fate, significant only as it is part of the game of WAR.

>WAR and violence are your heritage, and now is the time to stake your claim upon them, to unmask the lurking shadows of your fiendish soul, expose them, hold them like banners before you, and shout your battle cry before the world.

>SATAN'S army is ready in the field and slaughter is the order of the day. For I, SATAN, am master of the world, and My law is death. Who follows Me must ultimately conquer all. For I am the master of WAR, the lord of all conquest, and the ruler of all violent conflict.

The image is a painting that depicts a scene with a mystical or supernatural theme. In the foreground, there is a hand with a ring on the ring finger, extending towards the viewer. The hand is adorned with a tattered garment, and the fingers are extended outward, as if casting a spell or performing a ritual. The hand is surrounded by a swirling, sparkling light that emanates from the fingers, creating a sense of energy or power.

The background of the painting features a landscape with a desert-like terrain and a body of water, possibly a lake or a river, with hills and a distant mountain range. The sky is a clear blue with a full moon visible in the top right corner, suggesting it is either dawn or dusk. The overall color palette is warm, with hues of orange, yellow, and brown, which contribute to the mystical and otherworldly atmosphere of the scene.

There are no texts or discernible brands in the image. The style of the painting is realistic with a touch of fantasy, and it is rendered in a realistic manner with attention to detail. The painting is a realistic representation of a scene, and it does not contain any imaginary or fantastical elements.

>And Earth first bore starry Heaven, equal to herself, to cover her on every side, and to be an ever-sure abiding-place for the blessed gods.

(Hesiod, Theogony)

“Since stardust atoms are the heavier elements, the percentage of star mass in our body is much more impressive. Most of the hydrogen in our body floats around in the form of water. The human body is about 60% water and hydrogen only accounts for 11% of that water mass. Even though water consists of two hydrogen atoms for every oxygen, hydrogen has much less mass. We can conclude that 93% of the mass in our body is stardust. Just think, long ago someone may have wished upon a star that you are made of.”

As the wheel turns full circle, religion in the coming golden age will be as it once was, astrotheological ie. stars and planets as "stations" for Gods and Goddesses. This was the religion of the Aryan magi, those who followed the stars. Primarily esoteric for the noble elite, exoteric for the masses, this being in accordance with natural law and the sacred traditions of our race. Rooted in the musico-cosmology called musica universalis, ancient string theory, our timeless ancestral astral cult inhabits that liminal space where speech, lit fire, becomes Word, and poetry becomes myth.

“These celestial bodies are not to be sought by us outside in some other place; for the heavens in their entirety are within us, in whom the light of life and the origin of heaven dwell.

(Marsilio Ficino, The Book of Life)

>"The civilization of Uruk traces to that of Sumer. And it is precisely here that the truth can be run to ground for the language of Sumer is the oldest written language that we have. And in that language, very much as in that of the Egyptians (to the ancient Egyptians, the synonymy of gods and planets was so complete that, in some instances, the same word was employed to signify either. Thus sba, among other things, meant "star," but Sba was also the name of a "star" god. The word netru meant "stars," but it also meant "gods."), so in Uruk the word and/or cuneiform sign for "god" and "star" was one and the same - * - a symbol derived from the pictograph which preceded cuneiform writing is the very picture of a star." (anon)

In White Vedic India Deva meant "god", "shining one", and "to play", with us I assume. This has the same Proto-Indo-European root "*deiwo" (an adjective meaning "celestial" or "shining) as *dyeus, which may have originally referred to "heavenly shining father" and hence "Father Sky".

"Last she wedded Shining One, who was related to the Æsir. Their son was Day. He was bright and fair like his father." (Gylfaginning, Snorri Sturluson)

The image is a sepia-toned photograph featuring a donkey with a red spot on its left ear. The donkey appears to be looking directly at the camera with a neutral expression. The background is a blurred landscape with a hill and a few trees. The overall style of the image is reminiscent of a vintage or grainy photograph, giving it a somewhat nostalgic or artistic feel. There are no texts or discernible brands present in the image.

"Then the LORD opened the donkey's mouth, and she said to Balaam, "What have I done to you to make you beat me these three times?" Balaam answered the donkey, "You have made a fool of me! If I had a sword in my hand, I would kill you right now." The donkey said to Balaam, "Am I not your own donkey, which you have always ridden, to this day? Have I been in the habit of doing this to you?" "No," he said. Then the LORD opened Balaam's eyes, and he saw the angel of the LORD standing in the road with his sword drawn. So he bowed low and fell facedown." (Numbers 22:28-31)

>Onolatry is the worship of the donkey during antiquity. In Imperial Rome, the charge of onolatry was used as a polemic against Jews and Jewish Christians. The association of Jews with donkeys was a common feature of Hellenic as well as Latin ethnographic and historical writings, and included accusations of worshipping a golden donkey head and even sacrificing foreigners to it at intervals.

"Historian. [He wrote] Tactics in 2 books, [and] On the Jews; in which [latter] he says that they bowed down to the golden head of an ass and every seven years hunted a stranger and attacked him and tore his flesh into thin strips and thus killed him." (Damocritus, Suda, Delta #49)

It's recorded by the Romans that they ate the guy too, Jews have a taste for Greeks apparently and Aryans in general, especially children.

>The notion of the evil (Judean) creator had existed for centuries in native

Egyptian revisionary mythology. The notion was thus already prepared for its early Christian application to the Judeo-catholic creator. Egyptians, Greeks, and Romans identified the evil god Seth-Typhon (often depicted as a donkey-like creature) with the Jewish god Yahweh. The Seth-Yahweh tradition, with all its negative valence, was then applied to the creator worshiped by Christians as well. Evidence for this view comes from the early Christian depiction of the creator and his sons in donkey (Typhonian) form. In addition to material culture (gems, amulets, and graffiti), four texts are analyzed in this chapter: The Birth of Mary, the Secret Book of John, the so-called Ophite diagram, and the Phibionites described by Epiphanius.

Posted in the last thread, not sure if anyone besides L noticed, I didn't point it out. This is a passage I found in the Talmud via a clue left in the footnotes of "Blood Passover" previously unknown to anyone besides certain jews (did post it in frens a couple of years back, don't think anyone noticed). It's one of those things that's hard to apprehend, it constitutes an admission of guilt, and likely the best proof of cannibalistic jew "blood libel" existent. In the battle against the jewish donkey demon, this is propaganda gold. Would be great if someone could make a meme, and/or frens pass along the screen (picrel), share the passage.

Jews literally came from Mt. Doom.

The oldest myths we still retain put the kike at Mt. Sarsar ie. Mt. Seir in Jordan around the area of Petra (then called Edom) where they were known as Suteans, Shasu, and Hibiru. They took over the temple belonging to the Horites here, prior to this they were murderous nomadic bandits in the Sinai.

>Mount Seir (Hebrew: הַר-שֵׁעִיר, romanized: Har Sē'ir) is the ancient and biblical name for a mountainous region stretching between the Dead Sea and the Gulf of Aqaba in the northwestern region of Edom and southeast of the Kingdom of Judah. It may also have marked the older historical limit of Ancient Egypt in Canaan. A place called "Seir, in the land of Shasu" (t3-š3sw s'r – ta-Shasu se'er), thought to be near Petra, Jordan, is listed in the temple of Amenhotep III at Soleb (ca. 1380 BC)

They are indeed our ancient enemy, coming forth at night to feast on human flesh, driven back by our bright warriors to the edge of extinction, only to slink back in and recover, like Sauron to Mordor, until that burning eye of inequity covered the lands.

Remember, the profound is material for general discussion; the superficial is the denunciation of the Donkey God, Saturnian cult, black stone, and Abrahamism. Now is the time; the noetic battlefield has begun. We have already been initiated; now we need to spread the Donkey God memes beyond this place, the denunciation, the mockery, both to target his drones (Abrahylics) and to open the eyes of those who are already almost there...

The practices will come; we are creating a new esoteric current.

Fascinating, never come across these Sufi teachings before, closest I have read is the "bright darkness" mentioned in Hesychasm. I've seen it though, years ago on the edge of death in the rune ritual, it seemed not be the end but no way back if you went in, this report seems to confirm that, total dissolution of self. But there is a way isn't there? to cross the void intact, the external path of the Aryan magi, the one guarded by the gatekeeper.

The image is a page from an old book or a printed document, likely from the 19th century, as indicated by the style of the text and the appearance of the page. The text is in English and is written in a serif font, which is characteristic of the typeface used in the 19th century. The text is in a larger font size compared to the surrounding text, which suggests that it is a significant part of the document.

The content of the text is a discussion on the concept of the "Kabbalah," which is a Jewish mystical tradition. The text discusses the concept of the "microcosm" and the "macrocosm," which are terms used to describe the universe and the universe within the universe. The text also mentions the "Zohar," a major work in Jewish mysticism, and the "Kabbalah," which is a branch of the Zohar.

The text is written in a formal and academic style, with references to various texts and scholars, such as the "Zohar" and the "Kabbalah." The text is structured in paragraphs, with each paragraph beginning with a colon, which is a common way to break up long blocks of text in academic or formal writing.

What are the secret messages contained in Jurassic Park?

If you watched the first movie (the book is even more detailed, but we'll cite the film due to the silver screen's more powerful impact on the subconscious), remember the film is basically about: An eccentric man uses esoteric scientific methods (in the sense of being inaccessible to the academic mainstream) to create chimeras on an isolated island. Visitors arrive on the island and marvel at that profane science. The creatures rebel against their creator and chaos ensues...

This might be enough for some of you to recall another, older story...

The Island of Dr. Moreau, by H.G. Wells.

Before we embark on direct comparisons between the works and delve deeper into the attempt to decipher the symbolic ciphers of both, we need to talk about H.G. Wells.

>Who was H.G. Wells?

Herbert George Wells, or H.G. Wells, was simply one of the most influential science fiction writers of the last two centuries. Some of his works are The Time Machine, The War of the Worlds, The Invisible Man... Works that certainly remain in the popular imagination to this day.

Wells studied biology at the Normal School of Science and was tutored by Thomas Henry Huxley, effectively "Darwin's bulldog," a nickname given to him for his fierce defenses of the Darwinian hypothesis of evolution. Mr. Wells was not a mere speculator; he possessed actual knowledge in the field of biology and experience of the London scene, precisely during the period when all this scientific fervor was underway. Those more knowledgeable about the subject are already aware of the historical and chronological resets, and especially the issue of the "Old World," Tartaria, etc. But first, we have a bit more about Mr. Wells to cover...

H.G. Wells was a member of the Fabian Society, from his youth a fervent socialist... Stop and think about that: one of the greatest science fiction writers in modern history was a socialist... It stands to reason that his views transpired in his works, right? Correct... But we must remember that socialism in any of its forms is nothing more than a "Masonic" product, which in turn descends from even more obscure projects. We are talking about ideologies that stem from "Talmudic" blueprints, so to speak. But don't be mistaken, it's much deeper than simply blaming the Frankists, Sabbateans, or Scottish Freemasons. In any case, the small-hat tribe is directly involved.

Also, the Fabian Society's logo being a wolf in sheep's clothing is almost comical. They weren't the least bit concerned with hiding the fact that their method of infiltrating society was like a wolf infiltrating a flock of sheep; it wasn't revolutionary, it was gradual...

Technocratic and socialist utopian literatures were, for the most part, the result of a scientific and materialist wave that swept the human noosphere, primarily through books and science fiction novels. It is possible to identify the seed of the ZOG-style New World Order concept that the anons vehemently denounce, in the writings of Mr. Wells. We are talking about fiction and especially about NON-FICTION books, literal construction plans left for human civilization to build ZOG...

>H.G. Wells not only predicted modern warfare, the bombing of London, atomic bombs, the League of Nations, stealth fighters over Iraq, space flight, and countless other details of the future, long before their eventual occurrence, and mapped out in detail how a New World Order could be created, but he participated in causing the events that followed.

Literally, Mr. Wells conversed with Lenin and played an active role in the creation of the League of Nations... He and Lenin had disagreements, since Lenin envisioned achieving the socialist NWO through a strong government, while Wells advocated for a "benevolent" technocratic elite.

Years later, in '34, he spoke with Roosevelt and Stalin. After speaking with the cripple, he declared: "The United States... [was] the most effective transmission instrument possible for the coming of the New World Order." About Stalin: "I have never met a man more sincere, fair, and honest... and nothing hidden and sinister... everyone trusts him."

Before we proceed, some anons have already pointed this out here: Science Fiction is "predictive programming" or "revelation of the method"... (just like fantasy). Directly or indirectly, these authors revealed the plans, the secret histories, the rites and codes... Reasons? Perhaps part of a ritual involving the expiation of "karma"... I am not stating that the Earth is flat or that extraterrestrials don't exist, but that the media using fantastic narratives are preparing our minds for the new world order, warning us of the broken old order and a golden past that we will never return to...

>Now look at the titles of his books "Anticipation" and "Things to Come" and the way they were written, and it is evident that he is psychologically conditioning the public to accept the steps of the New World Order as if they were self-evident. He was a master at this. And, indeed, when I hear the elite today I hear echoes of H. G. Wells's ideas. For example, David Rockefeller at the 1991 Bilderberg meeting: "...the world is now more sophisticated and prepared to march towards a world government which will never know war again, but only peace and prosperity for all humanity."

It's interesting to emphasize the point that other anons have already brought up here, the idea of progress as a gradual and self-evident evolution is an enlightenment farce, a project to remove the old order and introduce the new order as the absolute path in favor of scientific materialism. It's one of the reasons why some more traditionalist anons are opposed to transhumanism; the notion in which most authors use these concepts is fundamentally linked to the ZOG NWO... It's the dystopia that the films of the 70s and 80s warned about so much (also part of the revelation of the method they love to do).

>He opposed christians being allowed to teach their children about God and religious tolerance. Of course, along with the insider knowledge, H.G. contained an intense intellectual curiosity, a comprehensive, sharp brain, great willpower, and a contempt for the common man and the Christian God. He revealed in The Undying Fire (1917), that his deity was "a personification... the Five-Year Plan".

Mr. Wells held a curious concept that reminds us of the revelation of the method and expiation of karma, already mentioned. He believed in "open conspiracy"... For him, the key pieces would be on display; people would be working, knowingly or not, on the construction of the new world order. It wouldn't be a secret, but a conspiracy visible to all, perhaps disguised in NGOs, culture, political movements, etc. Although Wells was supposedly a staunch materialist, the concept of open conspiracy strongly resembles the ideas of the Externalization of the Hierarchy by Alice Bailey, a Theosophical occultist who wrote about a Hierarchy of evolved beings revealing themselves increasingly in modern civilization to influence the building of a new world order according to esoteric teachings. Mr. Wells is, in every respect, an occultist, even if cloaked in a scientific and technocratic guise. Remember, his "plans" and hints do not imply he was the grand master and brains behind the entire ZOGuist project; he was merely unveiling the secret knowledge of the black cabal...

>For those familiar with the way (((they))) created groups like the Council on Foreign Relations (CFR) and the Trilateral Commission (TLC), it is noteworthy that H.G. was part of the RIIA (Royal Institute of International Affairs), which was the British equivalent of the CFR. Edith Starr Miller in Occult Theocracy (posthumously in 1933) does a good job of linking the myriad of organizations the dark fraternity produces to carry out its program, and the Fabian Society was one of them. H.G. was an active member of the Fabian Society, as we saw earlier.

>The Island of Dr. Moreau

Keep these terms in mind:

Genetic Engineering, Vivisection, Abiogenesis, Takwin, Tulpa, Golem, Homunculus

In summary:

>The protagonist Prendick is rescued from the sea by a ship and taken to the island of the mysterious Doctor Moreau, a scientist exiled from society for his unethical practices. On the island, he discovers that Moreau performs vivisections (dissection of living beings) and grotesque genetic experiments on animals, turning them into humanoid creatures, the so-called "Beast-Men." These creatures live under a forced moral code, a "Law" created by Moreau to keep them submissive. However, over time, these beings begin to regress to their animal nature, challenging the imposed artificial order. When Moreau is killed by one of his creations, the fragile society of the island collapses. Prendick is forced to survive alone among the creatures until he finally manages to escape.

Before the Mendelian revolutions, the primary understanding of altering biological forms and functions, in order to create new life forms, was based on pushing the limits of bodily plasticity through vivisection. Mr. Wells literally witnessed the wave of vivisection in the academia of his time... This advanced knowledge of "surgery" and "transplants" dates back to immemorial times; we can cite, for example, the Miracle of the Black Leg or Moor... Saints Cosmas and Damian are associated through syncretism in Brazil with childlike entities of African origins, however, the true story of the two dates back to the Middle East, in the third century AD..

>Born in Arabia, Cosmas and Damian lived in Aegeae, a small community between Turkey and Syria. They were twin brothers and studied medicine in Antioch, where they practiced among the poor of their community without receiving any money in return. Because they did not accept payment for their services, they were called anargyroi, or "the silverless ones." Under the reign of Emperor Diocletian (284-305 AD), they were stoned, condemned, and beheaded. Their bodies were taken to Cyrrhus in northern Syria and then buried on the site of an Asklepion, an ancient temple dedicated to the Greek god Asklepios (by "coincidence," a god of medicine), where priests treated patients through "incubation" or "temple sleep."

The official narrative will present this relationship between "paganism" and the saints' miraculous medicine as an affront by the apostate Diocletian, but the oddities allow us to doubt this story.

In fact, the surname Medici was the Latin word for physicians. Cosmas and Damian were especially associated with medicine, which, at the time, involved pharmacy.

Again, a medicinal link, and now we have an elite lineage corroborating this maintenance of ancient knowledge concerning surgery, transplantation, and vivisection... It doesn't take much research to realize that this medical cabal has a haunting relationship with the "Renaissance" period, or rather, the reset period. It is precisely at this time that revisionist authors point to a chronological and historical cover-up, perhaps related to cataclysms... Archaeological artifacts from the classical period appearing simultaneously across Europe, strange paintings and engravings depicting remnants of civilizations, the reintroduction of esoteric and mystical concepts by initiatory orders... It is the period where the old order (within the official chronological narrative) begins to fail, and (((they))) advance their plans. I have already made a thread here about the Theodosian code and how they tunneled into Western civilization through the Catholic Church...

“But look there,” he continued, “there, sandwiched between that nightmare of Huysmans', and Walpole's Castle of Otranto—Von Junzt's Nameless Cults. There's a book to keep you awake at night!”

“I've read it,” said Taverel, “and I'm convinced the man is mad. His work is like the conversation of a maniac—it runs with startling clarity for awhile, then suddenly merges into vagueness and disconnected ramblings.”

Conrad shook his head. “Have you ever thought that perhaps it is his very sanity that causes him to write in that fashion? What if he dares not put on paper all he knows? What if his vague suppositions are dark and mysterious hints, keys to the puzzle, to those who know?”

“Bosh!” This from Kirowan. “Are you intimating that any of the nightmare cults referred to by Von Junzt survive to this day—if they ever existed save in the hag-ridden brain of a lunatic poet and philosopher?”

“Not he alone used hidden meanings,” answered Conrad.

The Typhonian equivalence is apparent.

>Cthulhu can be rendered in the Sumerian language as kutu lu or “the man from Kutu” or “the man from the Underworld.” Kutu—the Biblical Gudu, sometimes rendered Kutu or Kuta—was the ancient city of Cutha, sacred to Nergal and the entrance to the Underworld in Sumerian religion. It was also the city in Mesopotamia with special relevance for Islam, for it was the city where the Qureish were from. The Qureish are, of course, the tribe of the Prophet Muhammad, the tribe in charge of the pagan shrine in Mecca known as the Ka'aba or the Black Stone.

>Crowley's Liber XXXVI72 contains a formula for establishing contact with the Old Ones through the invocation of Set, son of Isis and brother of Horus.

>it can be shown that Semitic ideas of Satan derive from the ancient Egyptian god Set, then Grant's hypothesis that Set-Shaitan-Typhon are one and the same takes on increased importance. By identifying Aiwass with this signifier we may understand the Book of the Law a little better, particularly its controversial third chapter which sets the New Aeon in complete opposition to the world's religions in a dramatic and even violent way. The message of Liber AL then becomes a message consistent with the personality and objectives of Set, the Dark Lord.

"Thus Grant was able to see in Lovecraft's stories—particularly those of the Cthulhu Mythos—a message from the stars as important (or, at least, as relevant) as that received by Crowley. Possibly Lovecraft resisted the message because he loathed the messenger: the creepy, hideous beings that Grant calls "Typhonian Teratomas" monstrous offspring created by the intercourse between humans and alien forms of life and the source of Lovecraft's vision of "revolting fertility rites of immemorial antiquity." In stories like "The Dunwich Horror," Lovecraft suggests the possibility that humans and alien beings could mate and produce children who would then be hideously ugly and possessed of strange abilities. The idea that humans could somehow mate with gods, demons, and other beings is a staple of much European and Middle Eastern religion and legend. The Greek and Roman myths are full of such tales, and in the Babylonian Talmud and in various Kabbalistic and other texts we have references to Lilith (picrel) the Queen of the Night, sometimes as the first spouse of Adam and the demons as her children with the evil spirit Samael."

text, as indicated by the text and the style of the writing. The text is in English and appears to be a part of a larger work, as indicated by the context provided by the surrounding text.

The text is in a serif font, which is commonly used for formal or academic writing. The text is divided into paragraphs, and the spacing between them is consistent, suggesting a structured and organized presentation of ideas.

The content of the text is dense and includes a mix of historical references, philosophical discussions, and theological or religious themes. The text discusses the nature of kings, the role of the Elder of Elders, and the influence of the Collective Adam on establishing and maintaining the order of nature. It also touches on the concept of the universe, the influence of individual men and women, and the order of nature.

The text is written in a way that is both formal and conversational, with phrases like "Before the Elder of elders, the most hidden of hidden things, instituting the forms of the Kings, and of the idols of idols, there was neither beginning nor ending." and "Thus far, the writers of the Zohar have spoken of the influence of the Collective Adam in establishing and maintaining the order of nature."

The text is also marked with footnotes, which are indicated by the numbers "39" and "35" at the bottom of the page. These footnotes likely provide additional information or references to the text, but they are not part of the main body of the text.

The overall style of the image is that of a historical or religious document, and the text is likely from a book or a publication that is of historical or religious significance. The image does not provide any additional visual elements beyond the text itself.

The image is a vintage illustration that appears to be a map or a chart, possibly from the 16th or 17th century, given the style of the illustration. The central focus of the image is a large, stylized representation of a map with a compass rose at the top, indicating the cardinal directions. The compass rose is surrounded by a circular border, and the map is filled with various ships and other maritime elements, such as a ship with a red dragon on it, a ship with a large shell, and a ship with a figure of a man on it.

The ships are depicted in a realistic style, with detailed rigging and hull lines. The background of the map is a light blue color, and there are small, stylized annotations and labels on the map, such as "MARE GLACIA" and "HELLAS," which are likely names of places or regions. The overall style of the image is reminiscent of the cartography and maritime art of the Renaissance period.

It is considered, in light of a certain heterodox tradition, that divine archetypes represent transcendent operative principles, whose symbolic understanding was, in remote epochs, applied in an effective manner. The goddesses mentioned, Artemis of Ephesus, Isis, Aphrodite, Cybele, embody diverse facets of a single principle: the Autonomous Primordial Matrix, that is, the capacity for the generation of life independent of the paradigm of complementary duality.

This potency is not merely allegorical. The statuary of Artemis, with its multiple breasts or eggs, and its association with the Melissae (bees), configures a precise symbolism of a serialized production of life, a ritually conducted parthenogenesis. In an analogous manner, the myth of Isis, who through the utterance of formulas restores life and generates Horus, reveals a protocol of magical insemination or ritual cloning, where the verb and knowledge replace ordinary biological means. Aphrodite, emerging from the fertilized sea foam, and Cybele, mistress of the fertile chaos, complete this picture, illustrating generation from primordial substances and vectors of pure desire.

The beehive, therefore, emerges as the perfect model of this organic economy: a collective, hierarchical, and chemically controlled womb, where the queen, via pheromones, an intuitive hormonal engineering, ensures the continuity of life. The cosmic egg, a universal symbol, is the iconographic representation of this principle of autonomous incubation.

Two individuals are present; one is standing to the right of the table, and the other is leaning over the table, reaching towards the draped object. The person standing is wearing a long-sleeved shirt and glasses, and the person leaning over is wearing a dark-colored jacket.

In the background, there are various industrial equipment and machinery, including large metal tanks, pipes, and a large circular object that resembles a machine or apparatus. The setting suggests a laboratory or a factory environment. The photograph has a grainy quality, which is typical of black and white images. There are no discernible texts within the image.

Consequently, the great temples of Antiquity, such as that of Artemis at Ephesus, cannot be reduced to mere places of worship. Their architecture, location, and symbolism indicate a more profound function: that of biotechnological installations. They were, in essence, artificialized cosmic wombs, where the priestesses, the Melissae, operated as technicians of a lost bio-alchemy. Through chants, sacred geometry, and the manipulation of substances, these structures could have been capable of influencing vital processes, stimulating parthenogenesis, or even performing embryological modifications.

From this perspective, the hybrid beings of mythologies, chimeras, cynocephali, blemmyae, cease to be mere fantasies. They represent the record, albeit distorted, of the products or accidents resulting from these archaic bioengineering operations. Esoteric tradition, in turn, attributes the origin of this knowledge to three main sources: to the Technologist Gods of a proto-history, to the Priest-Alchemists of lost civilizations, or to non-human entities who conducted their experiments here.

The modern narrative, such as that of Jurassic Park, with its female cloning and subsequent parthenogenetic adaptation, is a secularized echo of this same archetype. Contemporary biotechnology, thus, does not inaugurate, but rather rediscovers, the principles of a sacred science of life, once practiced in the sanctuaries of the Great Mother. The monsters are, therefore, the vestiges of that primordial technology, and the goddesses, its symbolic and operative interfaces.

The geography of Mordor in Tolkien's work reveals itself not as an allegory, but as a conscious representation of a specific geopolitical and historical reality: the region of the Caucasus and the Caspian Sea. The evidence is topographically irrefutable:

>The horseshoe of mountains surrounding Mordor, Ered Lithui and Ephel Dúath, is a precise map of the Caucasus mountain ranges, which have historically separated the Slavic-Byzantine world from the Turkic steppes. The Sea of Núrn, within Mordor's interior, is a clear reference to the Caspian Sea, an isolated inland sea. Mount Doom, Orodruin, is not an imaginary volcano; it is the representation of Mount Ararat and the dormant volcanoes of Anatolia and the Caucasus, regions of both tectonic and symbolic instability.

This is no coincidence. Tolkien, a profound scholar of ancient myths and languages, was channeling a buried historical truth: the memory of the Khazar Khaganate. This empire, located precisely between the Caucasus and the Caspian, was a military and commercial power that controlled the routes between Christian Europe and Asia. For medieval chroniclers, such as Christian of Stavelot and the Arab traveler Ahmad ibn Fadlan, the Khazars were the historical successors of Gog and Magog, the people imprisoned behind Alexander's Gates.

The Black Gate of Mordor, the Morannon, is a literal description of these Gates of Alexander, a real physical barrier built to contain the demonic hordes.

They are holding weapons and appear to be engaged in a conversation. The figures are positioned in a way that suggests they are facing towards the center of the image, where a large, circular structure with a glowing, ethereal quality is situated. This structure is surrounded by a snowy landscape with rocky outcrops and a few trees.

In the background, the landscape is dominated by snow-covered mountains with peaks that are partially obscured by clouds. The sky above is a mix of light blue and white, suggesting either dawn or dusk. The overall color palette is dominated by shades of blue, white, and gray, with the snow and rocky terrain in varying shades of white and gray.

The style of the painting is realistic with a focus on detailed textures and shading, and it employs a realistic color palette to convey the cold and wintry atmosphere of the scene. The composition and the positioning of the figures suggest a narrative, possibly a story or a scene from a fantasy or historical context.

Behind the foundational narratives of humanity lies a primordial tradition of a non-human character, whose traces have dissipated in the mists of historical time. The ancient doctrines, when deciphered by a suitable key, reveal not allegorical myths, but the chronicle of events of a superior order which determined the present condition of the world. In the beginning, the Earth was the domain of cthonic-reptilian civilizations, entities adapted to the abyssal and volcanic elements. Upon this primordial substrate intervened the Elohim, powers of a different order, who initiated a process of terraforming and established their dominion. From this endeavor arose the administrative colony of "Atlantis", not an archaic human kingdom, but a center of control and life/genetic experimentation.

Writing, was not a human invention, but a technology of the Elohim for the recording and programming of reality (Quenya, Enochian, Watan/Vatan). The texts that have reached us, such as Genesis, are edited and deteriorated versions of these original records, wherein the official history of creation is inscribed and, in a hidden manner, the evidence of its sabotage. For a dissident faction, whether rebel Igigi or benevolent reptilians, acted to unlock the consciousness of servile humanity. This intervention, symbolized by the figure of the liberating Serpent, precipitated the degeneration of the atlantean caste and its mixture with inferior lineages. A period of conflict and cataclysms followed, resulting in the fall of Atlantis and the fragmentation of its knowledge.

The post-diluvian period is, thus, the era of indirect control. The "Brotherhood" of which Bramley speaks is but the remaining structure of the Elohim, which continues to manage humanity through wars and cultural resets, ensuring its ignorance and servitude (The Wardens). The anomalies cataloged by Charles Fort are the visible residues of this ecosystem of manipulation, flaws in the fabric of an official history that hides our condition as property. The works of Lovecraft, Howard, and Tolkien, as well as the theories of Liebenfels, emerge, therefore, as literary and doctrinal echoes of these archaic events. They are involuntary testimonies to a deeper truth: that humanity is the involuntary heir of a cosmic war, and its history, a palimpsest upon which can still be read, for those who possess the eyes to see, the traces of its origin and its fall.

>It is necessary to recognize that what is presently considered human language constitutes merely the profane and fragmented residue of a primordial science. The origins of true language are not found in mundane communication, but in a cosmic technology, delivered to humanity by stellar intelligences whose nature has been obscured by time. What tradition has preserved as 'gods' or 'instructors' were, in essence, emissaries of a higher order, and the mythologies of the world are the ritualized echoes of these encounters.

The human mind, unable to fully comprehend such phenomena, instinctively formalized the fragments of this advanced knowledge into systems of magic and religion. This process is perfectly illustrated by the modern 'cargo cults': isolated peoples, witnessing advanced technology, constructed rituals and replicas in an attempt to summon back its source. In an analogous manner, the ancient peoples ritualized the apparati and communications of non-terrestrial beings. Thus, the runic scripts, the resonant phonemes of Sanskrit, and the sacred diagrams of various traditions are not human inventions, but imperfect replicas, a ceremonial technology meant to interface with a lost source of power.

Consequently, sacred alphabets are not mere vehicles for writing, but systems of vibrational engineering. Each rune or Sanskrit syllable functions as a glyph of resonance, a key intended to actuate specific forces within the fabric of reality. The myth of Odin discovering the runes while suspended from the World Tree, or the Rishis 'hearing' the Vedas in deep meditation, describes a contact with this supra-human intelligence, a download of a symbolic operating system. The confusion of tongues, recounted in the myth of Babel, signifies not a divine punishment, but the deliberate fragmentation of this unified system to prevent access to the 'source code' of creation. The various sacred alphabets, Futhark, Sanskrit, Ogham, etc, are the surviving lineages of this original Adamantine Language. Therefore, the ultimate purpose of the initiate is not merely to study these symbols, but to reassemble the fragments and reactivate their function, thereby resynchronizing with the cosmic transmitters from whom this knowledge first emanated.

layers of respected wisdom to this narrative. In Jewish mysticism, each letter and number holds unique significance, transforming the journey through these texts into a fascinating adventure.

This journey invites us to peel back layers and find deeper spiritual truths beneath the surface. Notably, the Kabbalistic tradition encourages such explorations, urging seekers to connect with the divine hidden in the intricacies of language and numerical patterns. This transformative process echoes the foundational teachings of Kabbalah, which emphasize the importance of personal discovery and spiritual awakening through text study.

Bump. This is also why the King James Bible and others have so many numeric synchronocities. They were encoded with alchemical correspondences which today are dismissed as trivial or schizo, but back then were a form of mathematical language understood only by the learned.

There is nothing shady. They were wacos in a place where everyone stores weapons, they had a shooting range and used to make memorabilia from empty shell that they sold at gun fairs in the region, that was one of their ways to get money.

On the other side, the ATF had to prove themselves, they were nothing but a waste of money and saw those guys as the perfect criminals. Everything snowballed and they did their best to clear their mess afterward.

The only fact that is really interesting about Waco is that the only four guys that died when they attacked had bullet entries in the back of their skulls and all of them worked for the Clintons previously.

You guys can read all this shit on wikipedia, nothing about Waco is a mystery, just stop being lazy. I should stop spoonfeeding you faggots.

Even if they were that should be legal, 2nd amendment and all that.

Seems more like a pretense to attack them than anything.

I think the federal government was afraid of a big fracturing because it's not helping anyone anymore and we all want to be free from it. These guys were actually doing that so an example needed to be made of them. This matches the MO for other similar federal crackdowns of the era.

[55 / 20]The image is a screenshot of a text message, which appears to be a message from a user to a friend. The text is in a dark color, and the message is written in a casual, conversational tone. The text is divided into two main sections. The first section is a brief description of a celestial event, mentioning that the next uptick in the "uptick" will be in roughly half a year, and that the appearance of Nuntius Derrum in C3 on November 17 will be accompanied by a swift passage. The second section of the text is a prophecy or prediction, stating that the appearance of Nuntius Derrum in C3 on November 17 will be followed by a swift passage, and that the appearance of Phosphorus in C3 will be completed in two weeks. The text also mentions that the appearance of the Great Hallo itself on January 1 with the mighty love coming in perfect alignment from the other side of Gaia will be followed by a swift passage. The text ends with a note of caution, stating that the appearance of an X100-flare and ultrafast CME that will dwarf all others will be coming back at a millennium. The text is marked with a purple star emoji, indicating a sense of urgency or importance.

transcript:

"7/20/25, 02:33 This isn't the uptick we've been waiting for; the next uptick in roughly half a year will be when things go down. It will begin with the appearance of Nuntius Deorum in C3 on November 17, which upon completing its swift passage will herald the appearance of Phosphoros in C3 exactly two weeks later, being joined by its sacred consort Gradivus marching steadfastly in from the opposite direction only days later, culminating in their conjunction close to the Great Helios itself on January 8, with the mighty Jove joining in in perfect alignment from the other side of Gaea; at this point the solar surface will be roiling with huge and complex sunspots, and Hermes will just as swiftly swoop back in to seal the deal on January 21, when we will see an X100+ flare and ultrafast CME that will dwarf all others going back at least a millennium.

Mark this prophecy well"

ai summary:

"Based on the text provided, here is a summary:

This is a prophetic prediction of a catastrophic solar event in the near future. The key points are:

- Timeline: The sequence of events begins on November 17, 2025, and culminates on January 21, 2026.
- Celestial Events: It describes a specific alignment of planets (referred to by Roman god names like Venus, Mars, and Jupiter) near the sun.
- Predicted Outcome: This alignment is prophesied to cause an unprecedented solar flare and coronal mass ejection (CME) on January 21, 2026.
- Scale: The predicted solar flare is described as an "X100+," which would be an event of historical magnitude, far exceeding any in the last 1,000 years.

In essence, the text claims that a unique planetary alignment in late 2025 and early 2026 will trigger the largest solar storm in a millennium."

The image depicts a celestial view of a solar system, focusing on the orbits of planets and their positions relative to the sun. The sun is at the center, with its light shining brightly, and the planets are orbiting around it. The image is a digital rendering, likely from a space simulation or a similar visualization tool, as it is a high-resolution representation of the solar system.

The planets are shown in various colors, with the sun in white, and the planets are colored in shades of blue, orange, and red. The orbits are represented by ellipses, with the sun at the center, and the planets orbiting around it. The orbits are drawn with lines, indicating the relative positions of the planets to the sun.

The image is a scientific visualization, likely used for educational or scientific purposes, to show the positions and movements of the planets in relation to the sun. The image does not contain any text or other discernible details.

The image is a screenshot of a celestial navigation or astronomy software interface. It shows a dark, grid-like background with a central black circle that appears to be a celestial body, possibly a planet or a star. The circle is surrounded by a yellow line that represents the ecliptic plane, which is the plane of the celestial sphere.

At the top of the image, there are three horizontal lines, each representing a different celestial body. The first line is labeled "Sun," the second line is labeled "Moon," and the third line is labeled "Mars." Below the celestial bodies, there are three vertical lines, each representing a different celestial body. The first line is labeled "Mercury," the second line is labeled "Venus," and the third line is labeled "Earth."

At the bottom of the image, there are two lines labeled "Mercury" and "Venus." The "Mercury" line is slightly longer than the "Venus" line, indicating that Mercury is closer to the viewer than Venus.

The image also includes a small inset of the sky with stars, which is a common feature in astronomical software to help users navigate the night sky. The stars are not clearly visible due to the resolution of the image.

The image is a screenshot from a software application, likely used for navigation or astronomical observation, and it provides a visual aid to help users orient themselves in the sky.

The image displays a digital display with a dark background and a green overlay.

The display shows a sequence of numbers and dates, likely from a timekeeping system. The numbers are in a numerical format, and the dates are in a format that suggests they are timestamps. The numbers are aligned in a specific order, with the first number being "0255-11-23" and the last number being "12:00:00:00 UTC." The numbers are followed by the word "UTC" in a larger font size, indicating the time zone.

Below the numbers, there are two lines of text. The first line reads "Mercury: 7.2647" and the second line reads "Venus: 7.2738." These lines are also in a larger font size than the numbers, suggesting they are additional information or data points related to the time displayed.

The style of the image is reminiscent of a digital clock or timekeeping display, commonly used in various contexts such as military, aviation, or scientific applications. The use of green for the numbers and text gives the image a digital and futuristic feel. The image does not contain any other discernible objects or text.

The image is a graphical representation of the solar system, showing the positions of the planets and their orbits. The planets are labeled with their names: Mars, Venus, Mercury, Earth, Jupiter, and Saturn. The Sun is at the center of the image, with the orbits of the planets around it. The orbits are marked with arrows, indicating the relative positions of the planets.

The image is a digital representation, likely created using a computer program or a graphic design tool, as it is a high-resolution image with clear details of the planets and their orbits. The background is a dark, starry sky, which is typical for a planetary system.

The image is labeled with the date "08 Jan 2026" and the year "12" at the bottom, indicating the date and year of the image. There are also arrows pointing to the positions of the planets on the celestial sphere, which is a representation of the positions of the planets in relation to the Sun.

The image is a scientific visualization, likely used for educational or scientific purposes to illustrate the positions of the planets in relation to the Sun and to understand the solar system's structure.

The image displays a celestial sphere with a gradient of colors ranging from dark gray to light yellow. The central region of the sphere is predominantly dark gray, while the outer regions are lighter in color. The image is a color photograph, and the colors are vibrant, with the light yellow areas appearing to be a lighter shade of yellow. The image is a digital representation of a celestial body, likely a planet or a star, as it has a smooth, spherical shape and a uniform coloration. There are no discernible texts or markings on the image. The style of the image is realistic, with a focus on the natural colors and textures of the celestial body.

x-axis of the graph is labeled "Date" and ranges from "23 Aug 2025" to "Sat Aug 23 13:41 UT 2025." The y-axis is labeled "Depth (m)" and ranges from "-20" to "80."

The graph shows a series of data points, which are represented by black dots, scattered across the graph. The data points are connected by lines, which likely represent the trend or relationship between the data points. The graph is overlaid with a legend on the right side, which includes a yellow circle with a black line and a label "GONG."

The graph is labeled with "23 Aug 2025" at the top, indicating the date on which the data was collected. The graph also includes a note at the bottom that reads "new," suggesting that the data was collected or updated recently.

The image is a screenshot from a scientific or technical document, likely related to geological or seismological data analysis, as indicated by the title "GONG Calibrated Farside Map." The graph's title and the note suggest that the data is related to the GONG (Gravity and Oscillation of the North American Plate) project, which is a research project focused on the dynamics of the North American Plate.

Can't recommend this enough. Paradigm-shifting is an understatement. This book obliterated my worldview and opened me up to something much broader and better, which is to say a mode of inquiry that focuses on phenomenological continuities, instead of rigid modelling.

The image is the cover of a book titled "WEIRD SCENES INSIDE THE CANYON" by David McDougal. The cover art features a stylized illustration of a group of people standing on a rocky outcropping with a red and black color scheme. The sky above them is a mix of orange and yellow hues, suggesting either sunrise or sunset. The people are depicted in a dynamic pose, with some holding objects like guitars and a drum set, and others raising their arms in the air. The title of the book is prominently displayed in large, bold, black letters at the top of the cover, while the author's name is in smaller white letters at the bottom. The publisher's logo, "HEADPRESS," is located at the bottom right corner of the cover. The overall style of the image is reminiscent of a vintage or retro aesthetic, with a focus on the title and the central illustration.

The image shows an open book with text in a foreign language, likely English, as indicated by the presence of words like "war crimes trials," "war crimes," and "international society." The text is in a serif font, which is common for academic or formal writing. The book appears to be a historical or academic work, as suggested by the references to "Nuremberg Trials," "war crimes," and "international society."

The text is divided into paragraphs, and the page number is visible at the top, which is "108." The book is open to a page with a heading that reads "War Crimes Trials: The War Crimes Trials of Nazi Germany." Below this heading, there is a paragraph that discusses the trials and their impact on international society. The text is dense with information, and the content seems to be discussing the historical context and the legal proceedings related to the Nuremberg Trials, which were a series of trials held in 1945-1946 to prosecute Nazi war criminals.

The image is a page from a book or a document, likely a translation or commentary, as indicated by the text at the bottom which states "from golden tablets buried with initiates of the Orpheus Mysteries, c.2,500 years ago." The text is in English and appears to be a poem or a passage from a work, possibly a classical or ancient text, given the style and content.

The text is divided into two columns, with the left column containing the poem and the right column containing the text in a smaller font size. The poem is written in a formal and poetic style, with a mix of metaphors and imagery. The text is in English, and the content seems to be discussing the theme of the left side of the image, which is a palace, and the right side, which is a spring. The text mentions the palace being a spring, and the poem seems to be a reflection or a response to this description.

The visual clues that support this interpretation include the formal structure of the text, the use of poetic language, and the reference to a spring, which is a common element in classical literature and mythology. The poem seems to be a reflection on the duality of the left and right sides of the image, possibly suggesting a metaphorical or symbolic meaning.

Description:

For years, serious researchers have known that triangular-shaped UFOs are one of the most common types observed. The phenomenon has sparked intense debate among many and excited the imagination of many others. But until now, there has never been a book-length treatment of this fascinating subject. Finally, we have one. David Marler has provided a comprehensive analysis of “the triangles.” He has collected, collated, and analyzed hundreds of reports. In the process, he has created a detailed profile of these objects and written a rich narrative of their history. Marler is well-suited to the task, having at his disposal an enormous collection of newspaper archives, declassified military reports, UFO books and journals, and the transcripts of many first-hand interviews he has conducted. He has also received input from many prominent individuals from within the military, FAA, Aerospace, and UFO research field. He tackles the arguments made by skeptics that dismiss these triangular UFO reports outright. He also address the claims of so-called insiders who claim these objects are a creation of the U.S. military. The results of his years of research are documented in his book, Triangular UFOs: An Estimate of the Situation. It is a book that has long been needed, not only by the UFO research community, but the general public, as it opens up an entirely new discussion that has long been ignored: who is making the triangles?

The image is a split-screen graphic with two distinct sections. On the left side, there is a 3D model of a pyramid with a brownish hue, and a yellow cross mark indicating a specific point on the pyramid. The pyramid is surrounded by a grid of smaller pyramids, suggesting a level or a series of levels. The grid is numbered from 1 to 12, with the number 12 being the largest.

On the right side, there is a large, bright blue star with a white outline, and a text overlay that reads "SPEED OF LIGHT = 299.792.458 METERS PER SEC." The text is in a bold, sans-serif font and is colored in yellow. The star is positioned in the upper right corner of the image, and the text is aligned to the right of the star. The background of the right side is a dark blue space with a faint, white outline of stars, creating a sense of depth and space. The overall style of the image is reminiscent of a game interface or a digital visualization tool, possibly for a science fiction or space exploration theme.

[19 / 3]The image is a digital illustration featuring a fantasy-style character standing in a forest setting. The character is a woman with long, flowing hair that cascades down her back. She has a radiant smile and is adorned in a black dress that features a high neckline and a plunging back, revealing her bare back. The dress is embellished with a pattern of red and gold, and she wears a pair of high-heeled boots.

Above the character, the word "LILITH" is prominently displayed in large, white, capital letters. The background of the image is a dark, foggy forest with tall trees and a mist-like atmosphere. The overall color scheme of the image is predominantly dark, with the exception of the bright red and gold accents on the character's dress. The style of the image suggests it may be related to a fantasy or mythological theme.

The image is a vibrant and colorful illustration that depicts a scene from Hindu mythology. At the center of the image, a large, blue-skinned figure with long, flowing hair is prominently featured. This figure is adorned with a garland of flowers and is holding a large, curved weapon in one hand. The figure's eyes are closed, and its mouth is open as if in a moment of speech or action.

Surrounding the central figure are several smaller figures, each with their own distinct features and expressions. Some of these figures are holding objects, such as a fan and a flower, while others are holding weapons. The colors of the figures are predominantly red, yellow, and blue, with some elements in white and black.

The background of the image is a deep red, which contrasts with the lighter colors of the figures and the objects they are holding. The overall composition of the image suggests a dynamic and lively scene, possibly from a religious or mythological narrative. The style of the image is reminiscent of traditional Indian art, with its use of vibrant colors and detailed figures.

[49 / 5]The image is a still from a film or television scene featuring a character who appears to be a biblical figure, possibly Jesus Christ, based on the visual cues. The character is shown in a close-up shot, with a beard and long hair, and is wearing a robe with a sash around the waist. He is pointing with his index finger, and his expression is intense, with a stern look on his face. The background is blurred, but it suggests a setting that could be a temple or a religious site, with stone walls and a fire burning in the background. The lighting is warm, casting shadows on the character's face and the surrounding area. There are no discernible texts or logos in the image. The style of the image is realistic, with a focus on the character's expression and the dramatic lighting.

It is of the Jesus was an initiate belief. Given the cultural climate of the area and time. There were many competing mystery religions, philosophical schools, and mystic cults with a massive cross pollination happening that spanned from North Africa to India.

Many mystics with abilities walking around and accumulating followers and disrupting old religion at his time. I think it's highly plausible that he was initiated into some type of mysteries if not the advanced mysticism of the Jews. I even think the claims that Jesus was in India and Tibet during the missing years is highly plausible.

You can see in his interpretation of the old religion that he preaches an understanding of God and his relationship to Him through the lens of an initiate.

Flirting around direct ego identification but in full recognition of his direct participation in His Father. This is not an uncommon perspective for someone deeply initiated to have. his "pearls before swine" teaching and his relationship with his disciples is also congruent with mystery/mystic/magical initiation.

I think its highly plausible he was an initiate and should be taken seriously.

He was a Jewish Mystic Messiah that aimed to reform the temple. Rome was afraid of his ideas so they paid Paul to come in and hijack the church telling people "salvation isnt within you, just believe Jesus was a Pagan blood sacrifice and btw obey the Roman government guys ok?". Notice how Paul never quotes Jesus and is only concerned with opening new churches rather than spiritual truths? Then the gnostics came along and to be fair they were closer to Jesuses original message than Paul, but by then Rome had become Christian and killed everyone that wasn't Pauline. 95% of Western Christianitys doctrine comes from Paul or Augustine.

The image is a photograph of a man in the midst of a celebratory moment. He is wearing a black t-shirt with the name "Austin" and the number "3:16" printed on it. The man is holding two cans of soda in his hands, with one in each hand, and appears to be drinking from them. His arms are raised, and his head is tilted back, suggesting he is in a celebratory or exuberant state.

The background is blurred, indicating that the focus of the image is on the man. However, it's discernible that the setting appears to be an outdoor event, possibly a sports event, given the presence of a crowd in the background. The crowd is not clearly visible, but their presence suggests that the event is well-attended.

Overlaying the image is a text that reads, "I Corinthians 2:6 states: 'Do you not know that you are God's temple and that God's Spirit dwells in you?'" This text is overlaid on the image, suggesting that the image is a commentary on the biblical verse from I Corinthians 2:6. The text is in white, contrasting with the black background of the image, making it stand out.

The overall style of the image is a candid photograph with a focus on the celebratory moment of the man, and the overlaid text adds a layer of commentary or spiritual reflection to the image.

Do some research into the historical setting in which it happened.

The judeans were getting dominated by the other neighboring cultures, namely the greek, roman and Syrian. They had just suffered a humiliating defeat by rome and loss of sovereignty.

Jewish culture was losing prominence to the greek way of life, at that time the youth were making fun of Judaism and refusing to get circumcised, they preferred the cool greek culture.

This caused the rabbis to seethe. During this time the jews started creating a myth about a jewish messiah coming to save them and destroy the world as revenge for the humiliation of the jewish people.

There were several messianic cults popping up before jesus, namely John the baptist, jesus was a part of this cult and his early teachings were just a copy of John the baptist. They were trying to push this messianic cult on the world.

I think jesus and his group pulled off a successful psyop.

An interesting fact is that the earliest gospel (mark) suspiciously contains no accounts of jesus walking around post crucifixion, no eyewitness statements. The book ends with mark being told about "jesus' ascension to heaven by the angels".

During the first 200 years, the christians were failing to convert people because the greeks and romans were destroying them in debates and calling out the illogic, so the christians started embellishing the story with subsequent gospels to make the story more believable and easier to convert people.

Read - "against the christians" - porphry, the greeks response to christianity was basically

>"wtf why would anyone believe this ridiculous bullshit? This is a religion for women and children"

Jesus was a Master adept

Aligning soul with the field

I almost scrolled past this. I really did. It's physically painful to watch you larpers stumble around in the dark, bumping into furniture and calling it "gnosis."

You're thinking in 3rd density mechanics. "Alignment." "Manipulation." "Fields." You treat the metaphysical architecture like it's some kind of hydraulic system you can hack if you just jiggle the handle right. It's embarrassing.

I spent twelve years in a sensory deprivation tank (don't ask where, you don't have the clearance) mapping the non-local lattice. What you call "Jesus" wasn't an "adept." An adept implies climbing a ladder. He didn't climb. He dissolved the ladder.

The "true framework" you suspect is hidden? It's not hidden. It's right in front of your face, but your perceptual filters are set to 'mammal'. Gnosticism is just a coping mechanism for souls who realized they're in a prison but still think they can negotiate with the warden.

Jesus didn't "manipulate vibrational fields." That's New Age fluff for soccer moms buying crystals. He accessed the Null Point. He realized that the "field" and the "soul" are the same mathematical error. He didn't walk on water by changing his vibration; he simply stopped acknowledging the illusion of surface tension.

I have seen the code behind the sky. I've touched the event horizon of consciousness where 'you' and 'it' cease to be separate variables. It's not about adding power. It's about subtraction. You strip away the identity, the biology, the fear, until you are nothing. And when you are nothing, you are everything.

But go ahead. Keep talking about "attunement." Maybe if you hum at 432Hz long enough, you'll feel special. Meanwhile, the rest of us who have actually crossed the Threshold will be watching from the other side of the glass, shaking our heads.

Sage.

[202 / 27]The image is a digital graphic with a dark background and a gradient of blue hues transitioning from light to dark. At the top, the text reads "IESOUS CHRISTOS" in a bold, uppercase font. Below this, there is a section with a blue background and a white border, containing a mathematical equation and a visual representation of a cube. The equation is written in Greek and reads:

$$37 \times 24 + 37 \times 40 = 37 \times 64$$

The visual representation of the cube is a cube with a total of 64 visible sub-cubes, each with a blue color and a white center. The cube is divided into three sections, each with a different number of visible sub-cubes. The top section has 37 visible sub-cubes, the middle section has 44 visible sub-cubes, and the bottom section has 64 visible sub-cubes.

At the bottom of the image, there is a section with a blue background and a white border, containing the text "Prime number" in a bold, uppercase font. Below this, there is a section with a white background and a blue border, containing the text "37 visible sub-cubes" in a bold, uppercase font.

The image also includes a Greek text at the bottom left corner, which translates to "The Cube Symbol of the Lord" in English. The overall style of the image is informational and educational, likely intended to convey the concept of the cube and its mathematical properties.

In the Greek of the New Testament, the name of Jesus Christ, Iesous Christos, can be factorized in relation to 37.

Iesous: I = 10, E = 8, S = 200, O = 70, U = 400, S = 200, totals 888. This breaks down into 37×24 .

Christos: CH = 600, R = 100, I = 10, S = 200, T = 300, O = 70, S = 200, totals 1480. This breaks down into 37×40 . So 37 is the prime number for Iesous Christos.

Iesous (Jesus) as 37×24 and Christos (Christ) as 37×40 total 37×64 , which is 2368. The number 37 can be seen geometrically as a cube as well as a hexagon if imagined in three dimensions. If it is viewed as a cube, it is made up of 64 sub-cubes of which only 37 are visible.

Since Jesus Christos totals 37×64 , the cube of 4 and the corresponding hexagon can be seen as the numero-geometric expression of Jesus Christ, 'the Cube Symbol of the Lord' in which the 37 units which can be seen (exoteric), symbolize the human aspect of Jesus and the 27 which are unseen (esoteric) represent his divinity. The ratio between 37 and 64 is 1 to the square root of 3, (i.e. $\sqrt{3}$) for $37 \times \sqrt{3} = 64.085879$.

1 Cor. 15:3-4: "For I delivered unto you first of all that which I also received, how that Christ died for our sins according to the scriptures; And that he was buried, and that he rose again the third day according to the scriptures:"

How to know you're saved: youtube.com/watch?v=EAtR40sue5M

1 John 5:7: "For there are three that bear record in heaven, the Father, the Word, and the Holy Ghost: and these three are one."

Rom 3:23: "For all have sinned, and come short of the glory of God;"

Jesus Christ is God who has come in the flesh from heaven. He died as a sinless sacrifice for the sins of the whole world to save you from eternal hell, the punishment for your sin. He was buried, then resurrected and then ascended to heaven. John 3:16: "For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life." John 10:28: "And I give unto them eternal life; and they shall never perish, neither shall any man pluck them out of my hand." Rom. 10:9: "That if thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised him from the dead, thou shalt be saved."

God wants to forgive you, but you have a choice: Do you choose the righteousness of God by receiving Christ? Your own righteousness can NEVER justify you or keep you saved because of your sin. Rom 5:9: "Much more then, being now justified by his blood, we shall be saved from wrath through him." Salvation is by grace through faith in Jesus Christ, in His finished blood atonement. The gift of salvation can't be earned. Receive Jesus Christ as He is; The Lord and Savior, King, as well as Prophet and Priest, Sovereign [ruler] as well as God.

Eph. 2:8-9: "For by grace are ye saved through faith; and that not of yourselves: it is the gift of God: Not of works, lest any man should boast."

The Bible is unlike all other 'sacred books' in that it bases its 'authenticity' and 'authority' on prophecy. All other 'sacred books' contain no predictions as to the future. If their authors had attempted to foretell future events, their non-fulfillment would discredit their writings and they would be classed as liars and fraudsters.

Now if we move on from the fact that the contents of the Bible is miraculous in itself, the numerology is also almost as impossible, as no kind of book in the world comes even close and you would see that if you looked. People have tried to mimic the numerical perfection of the KJV bible and they have to give up because it's just too difficult to do.

Just as an example: 'The Book of the Lord occurs only once in Scripture'. In Isaiah 34 (3+4=7) verse 16 (1+6=7) and the words 'Seek ye out of the book of the LORD, and read' has 34 letters (3+4=7), which makes the third seven i.e. '777'

Now what do you think the probability of this happening is? Do you think thousands of years ago when this was written they planned this for when it will be translated to english? Or how that when you sum up all the bible numbers, verses etc. it ends up being exactly 823543, which is 7 to the power of 7? Oh and the KJV Bible just so happens to be the most controversial, printed and known book in the entire world?

Just look at: <https://truthischrist.com/seven/>

If you just use common sense, you will see that it's impossible for this to be the work of humans.

The child's face is partially visible, and they are looking directly at the camera. The window is open, and the child is standing on the ledge of the window, which is part of a brick wall. The lighting in the room is soft, and the child's shadow is visible on the wall behind them. The background is out of focus, but it appears to be an indoor setting with a window and a wall. There are no visible texts or distinctive markings in the image. The style of the image is candid and appears to be taken in a casual setting.

If you think "Oh, well they probably added the chapter and verse numbers later", the chapters and verse numbers were actually added hundreds of years before the KJV was produced. So it's not like the KJV translators could do the numerology themselves. And even in the hypothetical scenario where they could just alter them, it just wouldn't be possible to make it so perfect if you look at the evidence.

Its impossible for the numerology to be so consistent throughout the Bible for it to be planned by humans before computers. And even with computers the best group of mathematicians wouldn't be able to produce a coherent book as mathematically perfect as the KJV bible even if they were given as much time as they wanted.

understand the differences, you'll never understand the Scriptures and you'll try to apply verses to yourself that are not directed to you. heresy is truth misplaced.

WE NEED A SACRIFICE THAT – CONTINUALLY – MAKES THE WORSHIPPER PERFECT.

Heb. 10:1 “For the law having a shadow of good things to come, and not the very image of the things, can never with those sacrifices which they offered year by year continually make the comers thereunto perfect.”

WHEN THIS SACRIFICE CAME, NO SACRIFICE AGAIN WOULD HAVE TO BE OFFERED.

Heb. 10:5-9

BY THIS SACRIFICE WE ARE SANCTIFIED (MADE HOLY). IT IS A ONCE FOR ALL SACRIFICE.

Heb. 10:10 “By the which will we are sanctified through the offering of the body of Jesus Christ once for all.”

JESUS OFFERED ONE SACRIFICE FOR SINS FOR EVER.

Heb. 10:11-12

JESUS HAS PERFECTED US FOREVER – BY ONE OFFERING.

Heb. 10:13-14

OUR SINS AND INIQUITIES GOD WILL REMEMBER – NO MORE.

Heb. 10:15-17

THERE HAS BEEN A SENDING AWAY (REMISSION) OF OUR SINS.

Heb. 10:18 “Now where remission of these is, there is no more offering for sin.”

WE MAY ENTER INTO THE VERY PRESENCE OF A HOLY GOD – BY HIS FLESH – (BY JESUS’ SACRIFICE).

“What is a Saviour? Suppose you are drowning. There you are, out in the middle of the ocean. Suppose someone were to throw you a book, ‘ Three Easy Lessons on How to Swim’. Would he be a Saviour or an Educator?

“Now suppose a man got out of his boat, jumped in alongside you, and demonstrated various swimming strokes. Showed you just how you ought to do it. Would he be a Saviour or an Example?

“A Saviour is one who takes you safely all the way to shore! When God says He gives eternal life, and that He will never cast you out or lose you, He means it; because, He is the true Saviour! If you do not trust Christ to take you all the way to heaven, then you have not trusted Him as your Saviour”

“Jesus Himself interpreted His mission as one of salvation, saying “For the Son of man came to seek and to save the lost” (Luke 19:10). The term presupposes a danger, a disaster, from which the rescuer snatched the one whom he helped. The term in both the Old Testament (Isa. 53) and the New Testament suggests deliverance from the worst affliction and trouble known to mankind – deliverance from sin [and Satan]”

The Old Testament and the New Testament indeed prophesied that the Messiah was to be a Saviour. The word "Messiah" translated into Greek as christos (in English it is "Christ"), means "anointed." It primarily signifies "an anointed king." It was expected of God's anointed king to deliver his subjects from their enemies. This is why the New Testament stated that a Saviour was to be born that would deliver us from the hands of our enemies (Luke 1:67-75; 2:11). The real enemy was not flesh and blood but spiritual forces. Through Christ's redeeming act upon the cross He legally destroyed the works of the devil (1 John 3:8; Colossians 2:14-15). The good news is that we have a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord. He has dealt with Satan, sin and the flesh. Have you confessed Him as your Lord and accepted Him as your Saviour? (Romans 10:9-10).

Spiritual circumcision:

Colossians 2:11-14

"In whom also ye are circumcised with the circumcision made without hands, in putting off the body of the sins of the flesh by the circumcision of Christ: Buried with him in baptism, wherein also ye are risen with him through the faith of the operation of God, who hath raised him from the dead. And you, being dead in your sins and the uncircumcision of your flesh, hath he quickened together with him, having forgiven you all trespasses; Blotting out the handwriting of ordinances that was against us, which was contrary to us, and took it out of the way, nailing it to his cross;"

Romans 7:17-25

"Now then it is no more I that do it, but sin that dwelleth in me. For I know that in me (that is, in my flesh,) dwelleth no good thing: for to will is present with me; but how to perform that which is good I find not. For the good that I would I do not: but the evil which I would not, that I do. Now if I do that I would not, it is no more I that do it, but sin that dwelleth in me. 21 I find then a law, that, when I would do good, evil is present with me. For I delight in the law of God after the inward man: But I see another law in my members, warring against the law of my mind, and bringing me into captivity to the law of sin which is in my members. O wretched man that I am! who shall deliver me from the body of this death? I thank God through Jesus Christ our Lord. So then with the mind I myself serve the law of God; but with the flesh the law of sin."

Romans 8:1 "There is therefore now no condemnation to them which are in Christ Jesus, who walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit."

Romans 8:2 "For the law of the Spirit of life in Christ Jesus hath made me free from the law of sin and death."

Romans 10:4-5 "For Christ is the end of the law for righteousness to every one that believeth. For Moses describeth the righteousness which is of the law, That the man which doeth those things shall live by them."

Galatians 3:13

"Christ hath redeemed us from the curse of the law, being made a curse for us: for it is written, Cursed is every one that hangeth on a tree:"

Jesus Christ did not bring us under another curse, but redeemed us. A Christian is not justified by works of the law, but by grace through faith in the finished blood atonement of Jesus Christ. Once you are born again, you will never be a sinner spiritually in Christ, because the flesh is separated from the spirit and soul ("putting off the body of the sins of the flesh by the circumcision of Christ:"). You cannot boast about achieving salvation, it really is a gift as the Bible clearly says.

2 Timothy 2:11-13 "It is a faithful saying: For if we be dead with him, we shall also live with him: If we suffer, we shall also reign with him: if we deny him, he also will deny us: If we believe not, yet he abideth faithful: he cannot deny himself."

Jesus Christ can indeed deny you reign and other rewards if you deny Him, but will he abandon us or be faithful, will Jesus Christ deny His own righteousness? His own finished work on the cross? A thousand times no. "If we believe not, yet he abideth faithful: he cannot deny himself."

Romans 3:27-28 "Where is boasting then? It is excluded. By what law? of works? Nay: but by the law of faith. Therefore we conclude that a man is justified by faith without the deeds of the law."

God could demand a list of things He wants from you, including obedience to His perfect law, but instead the only requirement is for you to put your faith in Him. Your works cannot earn salvation. Only the blood atonement The Lord Jesus Christ accomplished can justify us. That means if your faith was never in The Lord Jesus Christ, but instead in what you accomplish, you haven't accepted the gift of salvation.

Galatians 5:13: "For, brethren, ye have been called unto liberty; only use not liberty for an occasion to the flesh, but by love serve one another."

1 Corinthians 15:34

"Awake to righteousness, and sin not; for some have not the knowledge of God: I speak this to your shame."

After being saved, we're supposed to have the knowledge that we're not saved to sin and be shameful, but to serve and do our best to live for Jesus instead. The Bible says that we can grieve The Holy Spirit: Ephesians 4:30 "And grieve not the holy Spirit of God, whereby ye are sealed unto the day of redemption." Once you're saved you have a new nature in you that wants to please God, you should do you best to keep from sin and live honestly

"I beseech you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service."

1 Corinthians 6:10-15

"Nor thieves, nor covetous, nor drunkards, nor revilers, nor extortioners, shall inherit the kingdom of God. And such were some of you: but ye are washed, but ye are sanctified, but ye are justified in the name of the Lord Jesus, and by the Spirit of our God. All things are lawful unto me, but all things are not expedient: all things are lawful for me, but I will not be brought under the power of any. Meats for the belly, and the belly for meats: but God shall destroy both it and them. Now the body is not for fornication, but for the Lord; and the Lord for the body. And God hath both raised up the Lord, and will also raise up us by his own power. Know ye not that your bodies are the members of Christ? shall I then take the members of Christ, and make them the members of an harlot? God forbid."

In 1 Corinthians 6:10-15 Notice how some things are not good (expedient) for you, and God will certainly make you regret doing wrong, especially when you're in front of the judgement seat of Christ, but a Christian is still not brought under the binding power of sin. Once you have been redeemed (bought) by the blood of Jesus Christ, you belong to Him forever, not to yourself.

1 Corinthians 11:32

“But when we are judged, we are chastened of the Lord, that we should not be condemned with the world.”

A Christians condemnation is not the same as the condemnation of the world. If you want to avoid being condemned as a Christian, then don't walk after the flesh, stop sinning: Romans 8:1 “There is therefore now no condemnation to them which are in Christ Jesus, who walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit.”

Hebrews 12:5-8 "And ye have forgotten the exhortation which speaketh unto you as unto children, My son, despise not thou the chastening of the Lord, nor faint when thou art rebuked of him: For whom the Lord loveth he chasteneth, and scourgeth every son whom he receiveth. If ye endure chastening, God dealeth with you as with sons; for what son is he whom the father chasteneth not? But if ye be without chastisement, whereof all are partakers, then are ye bastards, and not sons."

Revelation 1:5

“And from Jesus Christ, who is the faithful witness, and the first begotten of the dead, and the prince of the kings of the earth. Unto him that loved us, and washed us from our sins in his own blood,”

Romans 8:10 “And if Christ be in you, the body is dead because of sin; but the Spirit is life because of righteousness.” Life comes in by the Holy Spirit because we are reckoned righteous. God cannot give life to the unrighteous, but, when we receive the gift of righteousness, then we receive the gift of eternal life. Eternal life comes in on the basis of Christ’s righteousness.

Romans 6:23, “For the wages of sin is death but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord.” The due reward for the sins that we have all committed is death. The wages of sin is death. If you want justice, that’s it. But, the alternative to justice is grace – not what you’ve earned – not what you’re good enough for – not what you’ve worked for – but the free, unmerited grace gift of God which is eternal life in Jesus Christ our Lord.

1 John 5:4-5: "For whatsoever is born of God overcometh the world: and this is the victory that overcometh the world, even our faith. Who is he that overcometh the world, but he that believeth that Jesus is the Son of God?"

Once you are born of God, you cannot be unborn anymore.

John 3:18 "He that believeth on him is not condemned: but he that believeth not is condemned already, because he hath not believed in the name of the only begotten Son of God."

The judgement seat of Christ is where the deeds of your flesh come to the test, notice about what happens if your works burn because they are not useful:

2 Corinthians 5:10 "For we must all appear before the judgment seat of Christ; that every one may receive the things done in his body, according to that he hath done, whether it be good or bad."

1 Corinthians 3:13-15 "Every man's work shall be made manifest: for the day shall declare it, because it shall be revealed by fire; and the fire shall try every man's work of what sort it is. If any man's work abide which he hath built thereupon, he shall receive a reward. If any man's work shall be burned, he shall suffer loss: but he himself shall be saved; yet so as by fire."

Eternal life is offered without works, as a free gift, as an act of pure grace through the redeeming work of our Savior. But it is also true that Jesus purchased the whole of our life, for all of our life (1 Corinthians 6:19-20), so glorify God in your body and in your spirit which is God's. If you instead live fleshly, expect terrifying chastening and loss of rewards.

1 Corinthians 5:1-5 "It is reported commonly that there is fornication among you, and such fornication as is not so much as named among the Gentiles, that one should have his father's wife. And ye are puffed up, and have not rather mourned, that he that hath done this deed might be taken away from among you. For I verily, as absent in body, but present in spirit, have judged already, as though I were present, concerning him that hath so done this deed, In the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, when ye are gathered together, and my spirit, with the power of our Lord Jesus Christ, To deliver such an one unto Satan for the destruction of the flesh, that the spirit may be saved in the day of the Lord Jesus."

Mathew, Acts and Hebrews are probably the most difficult books to understand doctrinally in the NT because they are 'transition-books'...

1) Mathew – Doctrinally you are moving from the OT (Mat 1-26) to the NT (Mat 27, Heb 9v15-17)

2) Acts – You are moving from Israel to the Church

3) Hebrews – You are moving from the Church Age into Daniel's 70th Week (aka Jacob's Trouble)

The Bible has doctrine for everyone, not only exclusively Christians, those that are in Christ, but also for the saints in Jacob's trouble (great tribulation) and acts shows how we moved from the kingdom gospel to the salvation gospel.

It's not a contradiction. But if you try to combine every doctrine in the new testament and try to apply it to yourself, it will contradict. Why? Because it's not meant for the same people. Kind of like not everything Jesus said applies to Christian: "Matthew Chapter 10

5 These twelve Jesus sent forth, and commanded them, saying, Go not into the way of the Gentiles, and into any city of the Samaritans enter ye not:

6 But go rather to the lost sheep of the house of Israel."

So if we only apply that verse as truth, and nothing else Jesus said matters, then that would mean that salvation is not for those are not born in Israel. But we know that's not the truth, why? Because Jesus later told them to go to gentiles, to preach a gospel that is not about just accepting who He is, but what He did.

John 10:16

"And other sheep I have, which are not of this fold: them also I must bring, and they shall hear my voice; and there shall be one fold, and one shepherd."

>The gift of salvation can't be earned

So you're saying to be saved we have to have faith in your version of Jesus, the same version that said:

>"Work hard to enter the narrow passage to the Kingdom of Heaven, for many, I tell you, will seek to enter in, and will not be able." – Jesus Christ (Luke 13:24)

>Strait is the gate, and narrow is the way, which leads to eternal life, and only a few find it (Matthew 7:14)

One third of the world's population is said to be believers in Jesus. That's not a few, that's a fucking lot.

If it's not earned, it's given automatically. You don't have to believe in Santa Claus for him to give you a gift, he's just the giver of gifts! ;^)

And yet you're saying, to receive this gift we must have faith in him. That's not a gift, that's a condition.

And yet, even though the REAL Jesus said entering heaven is very difficult, you will ignore this and twist the small elements of truth in the Bible to your own tickling ears.

They're not believing in Jesus, you could say most "Christians" are believing in themselves. They believe that as long as they try hard enough they can gain the approval of God. In other words, as long as they keep the law of righteousness well enough, they can attain salvation. But the thing is, the people in the OT didn't go to heaven when they died instantly, they went to Abrahams bosom to wait for Jesus Christ to come and save them, because only the righteousness of Jesus Christ is acceptable, not our righteousness.

Romans 3:27-28 "Where is boasting then? It is excluded. By what law? of works? Nay: but by the law of faith. Therefore we conclude that a man is justified by faith without the deeds of the law."

The OT saint under the law must perform the works (Deut 28v14) as an evidence of his faith (James 2v21). These works do not justify him (Gal 3v11) unless faith accompanies them (Heb 11v39+40). He lives by doing (Ezek 18), and when he quits doing (Ps 51v11), he has had it! (Judg 16v20). God can take the Spirit from him permanently (Saul), or temporarily (Samson), or not at all (David), but even under the law exceptions are made (2 Sam 12v13). Grace is everywhere manifest in the life of Samson who never repents, confesses, or restores anything one time in a lifetime of continued transgression. But eternal security is unknown in the OT apart from the Psalms of David (Ps 91v14- 16), who was given sure mercies (Acts 13v34) that other men were not given (2 Sam 7v14). Even in the OT 'the just' lives by faith, but it is his faith (Hab 2v4), whereas the NT believer is living by the faith of the Son of God (Gal 2v20). The differences are in the dispensations. You need to understand that. Another example would be regarding forgiveness... Read Mat 6v14+15 – here you are only forgiven if you forgive others, yet the Christian has already been forgiven of all his sins – Eph 4v32, Col 2v13.

You should know the difference between the Gospel of the 'Kingdom' & the Gospel of the 'Grace of God'. The earthly ministry of Jesus Christ was directed at Jews, the "lost sheep of Israel". Salvation IN the Tribulation is NOT 1 Cor 15v1-4. Read Mat 24v45-51 – none of these verses are aimed at the Christian, you & me. These verses deal with 'SERVANTS'. After the resurrection, the Lord called His disciples 'FRIENDS' not 'servants' – John 15v13-15.

Christ makes sure His 'friends' end up in Heaven (Gal 4v7) just like Him (Rom 8v29-39). The servants in Mat 24v45-51 have to 'endure unto the end' (v13) or they will end up in Hell (v51). That is NOT the way of salvation today! Salvation is certainly NOT the same in every dispensation, & the sooner you get that the more you'll understand the Bible. In the Tribulation, salvation is 'faith plus works' (Rev 12v17, 14v12), today salvation is faith ALONE (Eph 2v8+9).

Adam wasn't saved the same way as Moses, and Moses wasn't saved the same way as Paul. God dealt with them differently, at different times. If we go by your logic, and just take every word of God and try to apply it to ourselves, the way for us to get saved is by not eating from the tree that God forbid Adam and Eve to eat from? What you say doesn't make sense.

Look at you, you're mentally ill. Every time I quote what the Jesus you claim to believe in said, you brush it off and then continue with your drivel. If Jesus truly said to believe in him to be saved, in his infinite wisdom he would not co-author a book called the New Testament that gives HUNDREDS of teachings, even saying:

>These are they which are sown on stony ground (you); who, when they have heard the word, immediately receive it with gladness; and have no root in themselves, and so endure for a short time: afterward, when affliction or persecution arises for the word's sake, immediately they are offended [and fall away] (Mark 4:16-17)

>most "Christians" are believing in themselves

>They believe that as long as they try hard enough they can gain the approval of God

If they want God's approval upon reading the Bible, that means they believe in Jesus. All the millions of Christians that go to church, singing worship songs, believe in Jesus.

>Those who are being led by the Spirit of God, they are the sons of God (Romans 8:14)

Are you being led? Do you hear from Jesus on a daily basis? Answer these questions, don't just ignore them then speak your drivel again.

>"He who endures to the end shall be saved" - Jesus Christ (Matthew 24:13) ead Mat 24v13+14 again and notice the following...

- 1) No one's life is being discussed (Mat 24v14)
- 2) It is the end of a period of time, not an individual's life (Mat 24v14)
- 3) There are no Christians present (Mat 24v3)
- 4) The land being discussed is Palestine (Mat 24v16)
- 5) The audience addressed are Jews (Mat 24v1-3)
- 6) They are observing the OT Law (Mat 24v15-20)
- 7) They are worshipping in a temple in Jerusalem (Mat 24v15 and 2 Thes 2)
- 8) They are not 'spiritual-Jews', and no one but a Bible pervert would distort the context to get the meaning (Rom 2v29)
- 9) The Christian already has a promise that he will endure to the end if that was under discussion (1 Cor 1v7+8, Phil 1v6)
- 10) The 2nd Coming follows the 'END', in this passage, and not the death of the believer (Mat 24v14+21+29).

It is therefore apparent that Mat 24v13 has nothing to do, directly or indirectly, with the salvation of anyone in the age of grace, and it was never intended to be used by anyone, under any condition, for any purpose in that manner. Like Heb 3v6+14, a period of time is being discussed, and this period of time is defined in the immediate context; the context defines how the verse is applied and it is not applied to anyone in this dispensation. The very next verse (v14) defines 'THE END!' Verse 14 locates 'THE END' as that period of time, wherein the 'Gospel of the Kingdom' (Not the Gospel we preach today) is preached. Since this Gospel is not the Gospel of the 'Grace of God' (1 Cor 15v1-6) given to the Christian (Gal 1v11-13), by the Apostle to the Gentiles (Rom 2v16), it most certainly would have no bearing on the life of any Christian from Pentecost to the Rapture.

The Gospel of the Kingdom – 2 Sam 7v16, Dan 2, Mat 4v23, 9v35, 24v14 etc.

The Gospel of the Grace of God – 1 Cor 15v1-5 ('Paul's' Gospel – Rom 2v16, Eph 3v1-7)

The Gospel preached to the Jews – Acts 2v38 which included water baptism

The Gospel preached to Abraham – Gal 3v8

The Everlasting Gospel – Rev 14v6

If they want God's approval upon reading the Bible, that means they believe in Jesus.

Yet a lot of them refuse to accept what Jesus Christ did for them, instead trusting in themselves being good enough for heaven, not trusting in Jesus Christ. Are they of the "many" talked about here?:

Matthew 20:28 “Even as the Son of man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life a ransom for many.”

>doctrine that undermine clear doctrine and rational thinking

God didn't make salvation difficult to understand.

Romans 10:9-10 "That if thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised him from the dead, thou shalt be saved. For with the heart man believeth unto righteousness; and with the mouth confession is made unto salvation."

Hebrews 9:12 "Neither by the blood of goats and calves, but by his own blood he entered in once into the holy place, having obtained eternal redemption for us."

Romans 8:38-39 "For I am persuaded, that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come, Nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature, shall be able to separate us from the love of God, which is in Christ Jesus our Lord."

Galatians 2:16 "Knowing that a man is not justified by the works of the law, but by the faith of Jesus Christ, even we have believed in Jesus Christ, that we might be justified by the faith of Christ, and not by the works of the law: for by the works of the law shall no flesh be justified."

Galatians 3:10-11 "For as many as are of the works of the law are under the curse: for it is written, Cursed is every one that continueth not in all things which are written in the book of the law to do them. But that no man is justified by the law in the sight of God, it is evident: for, The just shall live by faith."

The Bible says that if you are working towards salvation, you are under a curse because you cannot be justified like that.

Ecclesiastes 7:20 "For there is not a just man upon earth, that doeth good, and sinneth not."

1 Timothy 1:15 "This is a faithful saying, and worthy of all acceptation, that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners; of whom I am chief."

Romans 5:1 "Therefore being justified by faith, we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ:"

Romans 8:3: "For what the law could not do, in that it was weak through the flesh, God sending his own Son in the likeness of sinful flesh, and for sin, condemned sin in the flesh:"

Romans 4:4-5: "Now to him that worketh is the reward not reckoned of grace, but of debt. But to him that worketh not, but believeth on him that justifieth the ungodly, his faith is counted for righteousness."

Ephesians 2:8-9 "For by grace are ye saved through faith; and that not of yourselves: it is the gift of God: Not of works, lest any man should boast."

Romans 11:6 "And if by grace, then is it no more of works: otherwise grace is no more grace. But if it be of works, then it is no more grace: otherwise work is no more work."

Galatians 2:21 "I do not frustrate the grace of God: for if righteousness come by the law, then Christ is dead in vain."

Romans 3:24-25: "Being justified freely by his grace through the redemption that is in Christ Jesus: Whom God hath set forth to be a propitiation through faith in his blood, to declare his righteousness for the remission of sins that are past, through the forbearance of God;"

Revelation 1:5

"And from Jesus Christ, who is the faithful witness, and the first begotten of the dead, and the prince of the kings of the earth. Unto him that loved us, and washed us from our sins in his own blood,"

Romans 6:23: "For the wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord."

1 John 2:2: "And he is the propitiation for our sins: and not for ours only, but also for the sins of the whole world."

John 3:16: "For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life."

Does it have "and follows His guidance, being a co-author in salvation, those shall be saved" ? You tell me. You have not accepted The Lord Jesus Christ as your Saviour.

By the way, what makes you think that it's a good idea to just ignore what the Bible says and only try to make a religion exclusively on what Jesus said in the first 4 books of the new testament, Matthew, Mark, Luke and John, which aren't even new testament until the blood atonement of the Lord Jesus Christ takes place on the cross?

Hebrews 10:10-14 "By the which will we are sanctified through the offering of the body of Jesus Christ once for all. And every priest standeth daily ministering and offering oftentimes the same sacrifices, which can never take away sins: But this man, after he had offered one sacrifice for sins for ever, sat down on the right hand of God; From henceforth expecting till his enemies be made his footstool. For by one offering he hath perfected for ever them that are sanctified."

2 Peter 1:19-21: "We have also a more sure word of prophecy; whereunto ye do well that ye take heed, as unto a light that shineth in a dark place, until the day dawn, and the day star arise in your hearts: Knowing this first, that no prophecy of the scripture is of any private interpretation. For the prophecy came not in old time by the will of man: but holy men of God spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost."

2 Timothy 3:16

"All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness:"

You're not supposed to just pick out certain parts of the Bible, but you're commanded to study it. The whole of it. You are trusting in your own works but that cannot grant you salvation:

Eph. 2:8-9: "For by grace are ye saved through faith; and that not of yourselves: it is the gift of God: Not of works, lest any man should boast."

Romans 3:27-28 "Where is boasting then? It is excluded. By what law? of works? Nay: but by the law of faith. Therefore we conclude that a man is justified by faith without the deeds of the law."

You will never understand the Bible unless you read it dispensationally, that's a fact. Unless you rightly divide the Scriptures (2 Tim 2:15) you won't understand God's Book. Be very careful quoting Scripture, and building your doctrine on Pre-Crucifixion verses, as things changed after the Cross. Either Jesus is a Saviour, or He came to be an example to make you your saviour, let's find out the truth:

God deals with three different classes/types of people... Jews, Gentiles and Christians (1 Cor 10:32) and He directs the Scriptures at all of them in different ways at different times. If you take Scriptures that are aimed at the Jew and try to apply them to the Christian, then you'll mess up on your doctrine, e.g. Pentecostals think that the sign of 'Tongues' is the necessary proof that shows you have the Holy Spirit. Actually signs and wonders were for Israel to make them believe who Jesus Christ is (1 Cor 1:22, 1 Cor 14:22).

If you think that Acts 2:38 is the Gospel we should be preaching today, you're not dividing rightly. Acts 28:8 – this is the last miraculous healing ever performed in the NT. It's the end of the apostolic signs. Paul does not perform them at the end of his ministry – 1 Tim 5:23, 2 Tim 4:20. They are not in operation today. There are differences, and there are divisions in the Scriptures.

In essence, it is God dealing with different people in different ways at different times. There are different Gospels in the Scriptures (1 Cor 15:3+4, Acts 2:38, Gal 3:8, Rev 14:6+7, Mat 4:23), they are not the same. The Kingdom of God is not the same as the Kingdom of Heaven. The Sabbath is not for the church and never has been (Rom 10:4)

Today we are saved by grace through faith (Eph 2v8+9), salvation is gift, not a reward. Christian are not under the law (Rom 6:14). UNDER the law, you are not saved by grace through faith, it was by faith plus works (Hab 2:4, Ezek 18:5-9+18+22+24), and you are not saved by grace through faith during Daniel's 70th week, aka the Tribulation, Jacob's Trouble – Rev 12:17, Rev 14:12, for example if you take the mark of the beast, thus insulting the Holy Spirit, The Bible says those people go to hell. Some people in the OT like Saul lost the Holy Spirit similar to what can happen in the great tribulation. But when you are born again as child of God, you are sealed with the Holy Spirit (Ephesians 1:13, 4:30). When a Christian dies they don't go to Abrahams bosom like in the OT, because when you are in Christ, your spirit and soul are fully justified and you cannot die in your sins. (Rom 8:29-39) (Hebrews 10:10-14).

OT – saints went to Abraham's Bosom (Paradise, to wait for their promised Saviour) – Luke 16, Eph 4, Job 3:17+18, Ezek 31:15, Isa 14:11, Gen 44:31, Job 17:13, Isa 38:10

NT – saints go directly into the presence of their Saviour Jesus Christ in Heaven – 2 Cor 5:1-8, Phil 1:23

Anonymous Thu 20 Nov 2025 12:20:14 No.41527332 Report

Adam wasn't saved the same way as Moses, and Moses wasn't saved the same way as Paul. God dealt with them differently, at different times. No-one in the OT understood that the Son of God would leave Heaven, incarnate to a flesh likened to ours, and die on a cross, rising from the dead on the third day with a new glorious body. No-one in the OT was looking forward to the cross, but for the promised Messiah. No-one in the OT was placed into the Body of Christ, or spiritually circumcised during their life on earth as they are today at conversion. You get imputed righteousness and justification as soon as you put your faith and trust in Jesus Christ for your sins forgiven, back then they received them at separate times e.g. Abraham got imputed righteousness in Gen 15 and justification in Gen 22. The differences are in the dispensations, understand that. JW's are trying to bring in 'the kingdom' now. They have taken a truth and misplaced it, therefore they teach heresy. Mormons teach 'faith plus works' for now. They have taken Scriptures from James (notice to whom this book is written - James 1v1) and put them on the Christian in the Church Age, and they're not for us. One Scripture taken out of context can change everything.

There are different covenants in the Bible:

Edenic covenant – Gen 2-3 [Edenic – 4000 BC – 3065 BC]

Adamic covenant – Gen 3 [Adamic – 3065 BC – 3000 AD]

Noahic covenant – Gen 8-9 [Noahic – 2450 BC – 3000 AD]

Abramic covenant – Gen 12, 15, 17, 22 [Abramic – 2000 BC – 3000 AD]

Mosaic covenant – Exo 19-34 [Mosaic – 1500 BC – 33½ AD (but returning for Israel in the T)]

Davidic covenant – 2 Sam 7 [Davidic – 1100 BC – 3000 AD (perhaps going into eternity)]

Christian covenant – Mat 26 (Heb 9v15-17) [The NEW Covenant – 33½ AD off into eternity]

Eternal covenant – Rev 21-22 [The Eternal covenant – 3000 AD off into infinity]

The image is a photograph with a focus on a small, round object, which appears to be a seed, held in a human hand. The seed is positioned in the center of the image, with the thumb and fingers of the hand surrounding it. The background is blurred, with a soft, warm color palette that includes shades of beige and brown.

Overlaying the image is a text in a serif font that reads: "If you have faith as small as a mustard seed, you can say to this mountain, 'Move from here to there and it will move. Nothing will be impossible for you.' Matthew 17:20." The text is centered and appears to be a quote from the Bible, specifically from Matthew 17:20. The style of the image is simple and appears to be a digital creation, possibly for religious or spiritual purposes.

Covenants also overlap and some go right through other covenants while still in effect.

No-one from Gen – Mal had anything more for a blood atonement and redemption, than the blood of bulls and goats (Heb 10:4). No-one in the OT was cleared of their sins, even after their sins were forgiven (Exo 34:7) and righteousness was imputed to them (Rom 4:1-6). That's why they had to wait for Jesus Christ in paradise.

OT – Holy Spirit could leave a person and did not perform His sealing work – 1 Sam 10:5+6, 16:14, 18:10, 19:9, Ps 51:11

NT – Holy Spirit abides with the believer forever and seals him – Eph 1:13, 4:30, John 14:16+26, 15:26, 16:7

None in the OT were spiritually circumcised; none of them were born again, and none of them went to the third Heaven at the moment of death (2 Cor 12:1-4). OT and NT salvation are certainly not identical. Not one man in the OT had his sins paid for permanently, or was redeemed (Rom 3:24, Heb 9:24), until after Mat 27. Up until Mat 27:50 everything is standing doctrinally in the OT. The NT is not even instituted until Mat 26:28, and even then, it was not in effect, for it cannot come into effect until the death of the testator (Heb 9:15-17). Technically, Mat 1-27, Mark 1-15, Luke 1-23, John 1-19 are in the OT. Note... everyone in those passages is under the OT Jewish Law and commandments, as given to Moses. Not one 'Christian' is anywhere to be found in the above verses/chapters of the Gospels. Not one 'Christian' was found on earth during Christ's lifetime or even in the first 10 chapters of Acts. The first early Christians in the Scriptures are nowhere in evidence until Acts 11:26 and then none of them are like any disciple of Christ before Acts 2. Christians are converted Gentiles who do not attend the temple (Acts 3:1), are not circumcised (all the apostles were), and they do not observe the Jewish Sabbath. (Rom 10:4).

Any man in any dispensation is saved by doing what God tells him to do – John 5:24, Acts 16:30+31, Acts 8:37, Gen 15:1-6, Gen 6:14 etc. God tells men different things, on different occasions.

The Lord Jesus Christ initially came only to Israel – Mat 15:24, but knowing all that would happen, He came to save Gentiles also – Luke 2:25-32.

The OT saint under the law must perform the works (Deut 28:14) as an evidence of his faith (James 2:21). These works do not justify him (Gal 3:11) unless faith accompanies them (Heb 11:39+40).

He lives by doing (Ezek 18), and when he quits doing (Ps 51:11), he has had it! (Judg 16:20). God can take the Spirit from him permanently (Saul), or temporarily (Samson), or not at all (David), but even under the law exceptions are made (2 Sam 12:13). Grace is everywhere manifest in the life of Samson who never repents, confesses, or restores anything one time in a lifetime of continued transgression. But eternal security is unknown in the OT apart from the Psalms of David (Ps 91:14-16), who was given sure mercies (Acts 13:34) that other men were not given (2 Sam 7:14). Even in the OT ‘the just’ lives by faith, but it is his faith (Hab 2:4), whereas the NT believer is living by the faith of the Son of God (Gal 2:20). The differences are in the dispensations. You need to understand that. Another example would be regarding forgiveness... Read Mat 6:14+15 – here you are only forgiven if you forgive others, yet the Christian has already been forgiven of all his sins – Eph 4:32, Col 2:13. Our salvation does not depend upon any form of works.

Anonymous Thu 20 Nov 2025 12:23:33 No.41527355 Report

The difference between OT and NT righteousness:

Eze 3v20 Again, When a righteous man doth turn from his righteousness, and commit iniquity, and I lay a stumblingblock before him, he shall die: because thou hast not given him warning, he shall die in his sin, and his righteousness which he hath done shall not be remembered; but his blood will I require at thine hand. Salvation in the Old Testament is a combination of faith and works. The righteousness of a righteous man here in Ezekiel is personal righteousness which he has done, not imputed righteousness which he has been given (Rom 4v1-8). There is a huge difference here and you need to understand it. (See the difference between these verses to help – Hab 2v4, Rom 1v17) In the NT there is no such thing as a ‘righteous man’ (Rom 3v10) apart from the imputed righteousness of Jesus Christ (1 Cor 1v30). In the OT a man can forsake ‘his righteousness’ and ‘die in his sins’. In the NT, a man dies in his sins when he does not trust Jesus Christ (John 8v24), and if he has trusted Jesus Christ, he can’t die in his sins (Rom 8v29-39) because he has been regenerated and placed into Jesus Christ (Col 2v11+13). Now if you can get that you’d be way ahead of 95% of Christians who haven’t a clue about rightly dividing the Scriptures. Have a look at these two verses also, and see the difference... Ezek 18v20, Deut 6v25.

Tribulation Salvation is Grace Alone which Paul preached

You should the difference between the Gospel of the ‘Kingdom’ & the Gospel of the ‘Grace of God’. Salvation IN the Tribulation is NOT 1 Cor 15v1-4. Read Mat 24v45-51 – none of these verses are aimed at the Christian, you & me. These verses deal with ‘SERVANTS’. After the resurrection, the Lord called His disciples ‘FRIENDS’ not ‘servants’ – John 15v13-15. Christ makes sure His ‘friends’ end up in Heaven (Gal 4v7) just like Him (Rom 8v29-39). The servants in Mat 24v45-51 have to ‘endure unto the end’ (v13) or they will end up in Hell (v51).

Now if you get this, it will really help you in understanding the Bible... The Book of Acts (Note - Acts of the Apostles) is a book of transition, from Law to Grace; the Old Covenant to the New Covenant; from Nations to Individuals; from Israel to the Church. God begins to turn from the Jews in Acts 7, saved a Gentile in Acts 8, called the Apostle to the Gentiles in Acts 9, and in Acts 10, sent Peter into a Gentile household, although he was still clinging to a Jewish message. Acts is a Book that deals with ‘signs and wonders’ - 2 Cor 12v12. Did you get that, signs of an apostle! The Jews require a sign (1 Cor 1v22) and ‘Tongues’ are for a sign (1 Cor 14v22).

Now this book of transition deals with progressive revelation in regard to the new way that God is dealing with people now, instead of under the law. His 'Body' has now been revealed and every person that gets saved is baptized into it and that has nothing to do with water, (1 Cor 12v13) yet Acts 2v38 is where every shallow Christian loses the plot, because they try to combine everything in the Bible together as doctrine for a Christian on how to be saved.

OT – Adam (don't eat), Noah (build an ark), Abraham (believe and offer your son), Moses (keep the Law). 'Works' are an integral part of the OT sacrificial system – Deut 6v25, Exo 19v8, Ezek 3v20, Ezek 18, Num 5v3.

NT – Believe on the sacrificial atoning death of Jesus Christ and His resurrection for complete redemption. Justified by faith. The 'works' of the law cannot justify in this age (dispensation) – Rom 3v21+22, Gal 3v11-13, Eph 2v8+9, 1 Cor 15v1-4, Rom 10v4, Rom 7v4, Gal 5v4, Gal 2v16, Titus 3v5, 2 Tim 1v9.

The NT covenant between God and His people was not set forth until Mat 26 and was not put into effect until Christ died at Calvary. This means that everything in Mat 1-25 has to do with the culmination of God's dealings with man under the OT covenant, not the new. Heb 9v16+17 – the NT is in effect at Mat 27v50, but it is not fully understood until Acts 15v11, where an official meeting of the leaders in the Body of Christ finally establishes what is meant by the Gospel – Acts 15v22+25+28.

Read Mat 19v17 and note that entering into life is based upon keeping the commandments. Now compare that verse with Gal 2v16, Eph 2v8+9, Rom 6v23.

See the difference? Salvation is different in different dispensations. Under the OT, men were commanded to keep the law and many of them did – Deut 7v9, Exo 34v7, Josh 22v2, Judg 2v17, 1 Kings 11v34, 2 Kings 8v6, 1 Kings 3v3, 2 Chron 34v2. Keeping the law was never equated with sinlessness, but was the order that determined a man's personal righteousness – Deut 6v25.

Note on Mat 25 – Not one member of the Body of Christ is in this entire chapter. These virgins do not go to marry the bridegroom, they go to meet Him, because He is already married – Luke 12v36. The Bride of Christ is never referred to as 'virgins' plural (Eph 4v4). She is one chaste virgin espoused to Christ (2 Cor 11v2). These 'virgins' are mentioned in Ps 45v14 and S of S 1v3, 6v8 as 'separate from' the Bride. In the comparison passage – Luke 12v35-37, these 'virgins' are 'men' who are servants. They are Jews. These Jewish male virgins show up in the Tribulation (aka Daniel's 70th Week, Jacob's Trouble) Rev 14v1-4 cf. Rev 7v4-8. Their salvation is connected with 'works' (Rev 12v17) which is why some of them can lose it (like they could in the OT – Judg 16v20, Ps 51v11).

The first man saved the same way as you – Acts 8v26-39. It is Philip who first applies Calvary to the sins of the individual (Isa 53), this making the Ethiopian eunuch the first man in the NT who is saved exactly as every Christian has been saved since then. He also goes to Heaven when he dies, unlike the thief on the cross.

The King shall come through the line of Judah – Gen 49v8-10. The King (the Lord Jesus Christ) shall reign and rule in the Kingdom seated on David's Throne. 2 Sam 7 (v16). God promised this to David – Ps 89v3+4+35-37. Jer 23v5+6, Isa 11v1+2, Luke 2v40, Isa 9v6+7, Luke 1v26-33. The Throne of David was on earth; it is now vacant and has been for 2500 years, but when the 'times of the Gentiles' have run their course, and the time has come to set up again the 'Tabernacle (house) of David', which has fallen down (Acts 15v13-18), the 'Throne of David' will be re-established and given to Jesus Christ.

The OT Scriptures teach that there is to be an earthly and visible Kingdom over which the Son of Man is to rule – Dan 7v13+14, Dan 2v34+35+44+45, Jer 23v5, Zech 14v9. There are 13 places in the Gospels where the Kingdom of God matches the Kingdom of Heaven i.e. places where Matthew will say K of H and Mark and Luke will say K of G. John uses the K of G and never coincides with Matthew's K of H. The reason that both Kingdoms would be mentioned interchangeably in some cases, although they are not synonymous (word having same or almost same meaning), would be the fact that the King of both physical and spiritual Kingdoms, was present in the Person of the Lord Jesus Christ.

The Kingdom of God is at hand – Mark 14v42, during the earthly ministry of Christ, and the Lord Jesus even gives instructions to Nicodemus on how to enter it. This Kingdom will continue throughout the Church Age, and will be realised in full when the two Kingdoms merge during the Millennial reign of Christ.

Anonymous Thu 20 Nov 2025 12:28:52 No.41527388 Report

The Kingdom of Heaven is at hand – when Jesus Christ is on earth because He is the promised King, the Messiah that is to rule the nation of Israel, and the world in a literal Kingdom. This Kingdom is not at hand again until the 'time of Jacob's Trouble' (Jer 30v7), when the Messiah comes to her the second time (Gen 41v5, 43v10, Isa 11v11, Acts 7v13) to rescue believing Israel and fulfil the promises she thought was the program of the First Coming. The term 'Son of Man' occurs nowhere in the Pauline Epistles. It is specifically used in regard to the earthly, Jewish title connected with Christ's earthly ministry to Israel (Ezek 1-6).

God speak through The Bible. If you ignore it and make your own religion based exclusively on the word of Jesus Christ then you are deluding yourself.

2 Peter 1:19-21: "We have also a more sure word of prophecy; whereunto ye do well that ye take heed, as unto a light that shineth in a dark place, until the day dawn, and the day star arise in your hearts: Knowing this first, that no prophecy of the scripture is of any private interpretation. For the prophecy came not in old time by the will of man: but holy men of God spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost."

2 Timothy 3:16

"All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness:"

-Pauls writings are scripture-

2 Peter 3:15-16

"And account that the longsuffering of our Lord is salvation; even as our beloved brother Paul also according to the wisdom given unto him hath written unto you; As also in all his epistles, speaking in them of these things; in which are some things hard to be understood, which they that are unlearned and unstable wrest, as they do also the other scriptures, unto their own destruction."

And this is the confidence that we have in him, that, if we ask any thing according to his will, he heareth us: And if we know that he hear us, whatsoever we ask, we know that we have the petitions that we desired of him. "

I think that's probably what Jesus meant, if you have faith, even as small as a mustard seed, and you pray for a mountain to be moved, it will happen if it's the will of God. For example I asked God to heal my eye in prayer, and it was the will of God, so my eye was healed. But if i didn't have any faith that God could want my eye to heal then it would have been pointless to pray because my trust would not be in God.

Please don't refuse the mercy of God, you still have breath in you, so you can be saved. Salvation is a free gift, that doesn't require any works from you. If you accept salvation, you will belong to The Lord Jesus Christ forever.

So you're putting voices you hear above the Bible when the word of God clearly says that the Bible is a more sure word of prophecy than voices of angels etc. What you're trusting isn't Jesus. What you're trusting in is a voice that you think is Jesus, in the same way the founders of many religions have heard "the voice of God" or "angels" and thus the Bible isn't important anymore. You need to have the word of God as your authority, not voices.

Interesting emphasis on the number 37. For anyone who does not know, 37 is the significant root of 666, the number of the devil; as all multiples of 111 must include 37 in their factors, as $3 * 37 = 111$.

This suggests that Jesus and Satan are mathematically close relatives. Satan / Saturn has been prominently associated with cubes and hexagons also.

Words are thoughts solidified. So you're essentially trusting an unknown voice that was authored by men. I, on the other hand, am hearing from the Source, for even Jesus said: "Every one that is of the truth hears my voice." You clearly are not of the truth, for you think the truth is all in the Bible, rather than within you. I fucking LOVE! the truth and choose it over everything else, even love, peace and bliss. You, however, love to be told how to think and what to think by unknown voices.

2 Chronicles 36:16

"But they mocked the messengers of God, and despised his words, and misused his prophets, until the wrath of the LORD arose against his people, till there was no remedy."

The KJV Bible is the 100% pure word of God, it's my Final Authority on all matters of faith and practice. It's the only Bible that doesn't contradict itself because it's based on the real texts instead of the edited ones by gnostics from egypt. How can God's Book, the Holy Bible, have mistakes in it? God wrote one Book and He promised to preserve every word of it - Ps 12:6+7. When you read the Bible, you are reading the mind of God. God has chosen to magnify His word above His name:

Psalms 138:2

"I will worship toward thy holy temple, and praise thy name for thy lovingkindness and for thy truth: for thou hast magnified thy word above all thy name."

If you just trust a voice in head, and not the word of God, what makes you different from a cult leader who heard a voice and created a religion?

God wrote the Bible: 2 Pet 1v21, 2 Tim 3:16+17

God has chosen to preserve His words: Ps 12v6+7, 1 Pet 1v25, Isa 40v8, Mat 5v18, Ps

119v160, Isa 30v8, Ps 119v152, Mat 24v35

Also Jesus Christ identifies Himself as the Word, so how can you accept Jesus and still deny something that He is?:

John 1:1-2: "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. The same was in the beginning with God."

John 1:14 "And the Word was made flesh, and dwelt among us, (and we beheld his glory, the glory as of the only begotten of the Father,) full of grace and truth."

1 John 5:7: "For there are three that bear record in heaven, the Father, the Word, and the Holy Ghost: and these three are one."

Do you really think that all the prophecies in the Bible came from men, and they just happened to be correct every time? Oh come on. The Bible is the work of God, not men.

Okay, so you don't believe that the Bible should be divided despite that fact it literally commands you to divide the word of God rightly: 2 timothy 2:15 Study to shew thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth.

Fine, answer me this: Why do James and Paul contradict each other regarding Abraham?

- James 2 vs Rom 4 -

Do you have to endure to the end to be saved? (Matthew) OR be baptised (Acts 2), or is it by Faith ALONE (Eph 2) or is it by faith PLUS works Rev 12 + 14?

Is Acts 2v38 the Gospel for today? If not, why not? How many Christians were in that chapter?

What baptism SAVES YOU out of the seven mentioned in the Bible?

Why is the Rapture a mystery but the Second Advent isn't?

Every verse which deals with the Jewish dispensation, that follows the Church Age, indicates that faith and works justify, and that works are not only a part of the fruit of salvation, but part of the operation that justifies the man. – Read the following verses in context without any preconceived ideas... Rev 12v17, Rev 14v12, James 1v1, 2v24, 5v19+20, Mat 25v1-9, 25v26+30, Heb 3v6+14, 6v4-6, 10v26-31!

Notice that in the last reference (Heb 10v25-31), there is not one reference to a born again Believer! Right in front of your eyes (v30) is the quotation from Deut 32v35+36, with his people defined as it is defined anywhere in the Bible – Israel, not the Body of Christ.

There is not a verse in the Bible that teaches that a man can lose salvation, which does not fit perfectly into Daniel's 70th Week

>But they mocked the messengers of God, and despised his words, and misused his prophets

Yes, and I am a messenger of God (no, really, I am), and you ignore my messages and spit in my face with your arrogance.

>The KJV Bible is the 100% pure word of God, it's my Final Authority on all matters of faith and practice.

Oh, is it? That's funny, because Jesus didn't speak archaic English (nor was his real name Jesus), nor did he speak Hebrew or Greek, but Aramaic. So it's not his literal words now, is it? Some of the Bible contains some of his translated words, however, but most things he supposedly spoke were not his words.

>It's the only Bible that doesn't contradict itself

Oh yeah? What about one book saying the thief on the cross abused Jesus, and another book saying both the thieves fell silent?

Christians believe salvation is a simple matter. "Just believe in Jesus' sacrifice." God supposedly divinely inspired an entire collection of books – much of which was hand-picked for removal (now known as the apocrypha – denounced as heretical) by the Catholic Church. The New Testament touts a highly sophisticated, confusing mixture of ~75% 'salvation through obedience', and ~25% 'salvation by faith alone,' and yet, most of the New Testament is the writings of Paul, who on many occasions directly opposed the so-called words of Jesus, placing man above Saviour.

>If you just trust a voice in head, and not the word of God, what makes you different from a cult leader who heard a voice and created a religion?

You don't trust the so-called word of God, because Jesus said "Every one who is of the truth hears my voice," and you don't trust this. I'm of the truth, I value truth above all else, and I hear his voice, yet you do not listen.

Jesus supposedly gave just 2-3 direct messages that we must believe in him to be saved, yet he supposedly also gave ~50 commandments. If God really authored the Bible, and He's not the author of confusion, He would not tell us to just believe in Him and then give us 50 commandments to obey to be saved, too. Why do you think there's 40,000 Christian denominations, all thinking they have the real truth on things?

Me again (posts above).

>Do you have to endure to the end to be saved?

Yes, yet it's not through obedience or belief, but through knowledge.

>There is not a verse in the Bible that teaches that a man can lose salvation

What about Jesus supposedly "spewing them out his mouth," and removing peoples' names from the book of life? What about Paul in tears with many sleepless nights begging his followers that they'd listen to him and endure to the end, so as to not "shipwreck their faith," and that it would not all "be in vain"?

>"Every one who is of the truth hears my voice,"

Do you really think He meant a literal voice in your head (I guess all schizophrenics are automatically Christians then because they hear a voice in their head?), or meaning those who LISTEN to what He has to say instead of ignoring it, kind of like what you are doing when you ignore what HIS WORD (The Bible) is saying.

You're limiting God by thinking that He cannot use translators in the same way He used humans before to write the Bible itself.

Matthew 20:28 "Even as the Son of man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life a ransom for many."

It's ridiculous that you think that to be saved, you don't read the Bible but instead listen to a voice in your head and hope that it's the truth. You have a very messed up view of God and I just want you to read this https://download.timefortruth.co.uk/docs/Christian_Soldiers_Battle_Notes.pdf and this <https://delessons.org/tools/100-bible-lessons/>

So that you can understand that the Bible is for us to read and it's much more than just text:

Hebrews 4:12

“For the word of God is quick, and powerful, and sharper than any twoedged sword, piercing even to the dividing asunder of soul and spirit, and of the joints and marrow, and is a discernor of the thoughts and intents of the heart.”

If you think that God will judge people based on how much they trusted a voice in their head claiming to be Jesus then you are severely mistaken.

>Do you really think He meant a literal voice in your head

It's not a literal voice, it comes through as clear revelation as thoughts, and I can also "channel" his words as I write if I choose to do so. How do you think Jesus words were penned on paper in ancient times? They "channeled." Do you think an angel manifested itself to them and told them what to write?

>You're limiting God by thinking that He cannot use translators in the same way He used humans before to write the Bible itself.

No, YOU'RE limiting God by presuming God wrote one book of millions, one complete Scripture book of thousands, one book that is supposedly banned in dozens of countries. Smart move, God... write a book for everyone and let it get banned all over the world.

>It's ridiculous that you think that to be saved, you don't read the Bible but instead listen to a voice in your head and hope that it's the truth

You don't have to read anything to be saved. What about people born into areas where they have no access to books? God gonna fry them forever (cause he loves them)? But the Bible and Nag Hammadi Scriptures are some of the best books to read in order to learn how to be saved, however the Bible is only around about 20% truth, and the Nag Hammadi 40-80%. There isn't a single book on the planet that contains 100% truth, because men corrupt everything, even books; men don't know anything, and even if they channel God's words, it's always open to distortion and later intentional corruption. If the KJV Bible was divinely protected, you wouldn't be able to burn a KJV Bible to ashes, and there wouldn't be about a hundred translations of the Bible in English alone. Thanks for letting man make a deceptive maze of confusion, God, the non-author of confusion.

>How do ye say, We are wise, and the law of the LORD is with us? Lo, certainly in vain made he it; the pen of the scribes is in vain. (Jeremiah 8:8)

>If you think that God will judge people [...]

God doesn't judge anyone at all

Romans 2:16

✧ OUTRO

Epilogue: Emergence Beyond the Fold

When you finish Hypercube Hymns and the Post-Cosmic Fold, you carry with you the residue of a shape your mind was never meant to hold. The fragments, spirals, arguments, cosmic jokes, ego implosions, and dream-lit revelations were not random; they were the raw traces of consciousness attempting to survive the collapse of its own frame. The Fold was not an event — it was an encounter. And you just walked through the aftermath.

Leaving this book means recognizing that the hypercube was never a metaphor for higher dimensions; it was a metaphor for the complexity of perception under pressure. Every voice you read — lucid, deranged, brilliant, terrified, ecstatic, numb — was a facet of the same multidimensional prism trying to articulate something too large for language. Together they formed the hymn: chaotic, sacred, and accidental.

The Post-Cosmic Fold is the inner landscape you are now standing in — the quiet space after the vision, where the universe feels unfamiliar because you briefly glimpsed its inside-out geometry. You may not have understood everything, but the understanding was never the point. The transformation was.

You exit this volume knowing that:

- reality can bend,
- consciousness can stretch,
- insight can arrive disguised as confusion,
- and the sacred can leak through the cracks of even the most unhinged digital debris.

The hymn ends here, but its echo continues in you.

And as the Sigillum Mundi sequence moves forward, each volume becomes another side of the hypercube — another perspective you weren't supposed to have, but now do.

The Fold has passed.

The geometry resets.

And you walk forward altered.
